ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Big Nations Face Crisis Of Economics

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The true state of the North Atlantic nations that form the political, economic and military heart of the free world is quite different from its public image.

A single fact—and a daunting one—reveals the gap between these nations' expectations and their performance: Apart from the booming Six of the European Common Market none of the major Western nations is growing significantly in wealth today.

In Britain, the United States and Canada, three essential pillars of the free world economy, production and consumption are no longer rising and seem likely to fall. But other grave factors are at work to assure, not long hence, an organic distortion in the whole North Atlantic community and defence alliance.

As one of Britain's leading economists remarked to this reporter in London, "at its present rate the West is going broke." This view, though over-simplified, is echoed by experts in Washington and privately shared by thoughtful men in Ottawa.

The real question facing the North Atlantic nations is not whether they are slipping in their economic struggle with Communism but whether and how they can arrest their downward slide.

Certainly the slide cannot be arrested and reversed by present methods. Projected a little ahead, the economic graphs of the West point straight toward calamity. And if calamity is not averted by new methods Canada will doubtless be its chief casualty.

How did this strange and little understood crisis in Western man's affairs come about? What has gone wrong with his neat plans and the confident forecasts of his politicians? Why is his present dilemma built to order for Mr. Khrushchev?

It will require a series of reports from Britain, Europe, Washington and Ottawa to explore these complex questions.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hopes, spirits and tarpaulins came up today in the wake of a happy announcement of a considerable change in Vancouver's weather pattern overnight.

The weather man said the Grey Cup football championship between Edmonton Eskimos and Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday should be partly cloudy, probably dry and no fog, with temperature of 40 to 45 degrees.

The forecast was made with the first blue sky showing over Vancouver in a week.

Empire Stadium, with approval from the weather office, lifted the tarpaulins that have been covering the field to let it dry out a bit.

Stadium officials said the field will still be soft for the game, but in better condition than if it had been impossible to lift the tarps until shortly before the 1:30 p.m. PST game time.

Open Divorce Law Proposed

OTTAWA (CP)—Gordon Chown (PC-Winnipeg South) proposed a sweeping parliamentary committee enquiry into divorce law today.

His resolution suggested the formation of a special committee to consider adultery, desertion, cruelty, insanity and other grounds "which in the opinion of a court or judge justify the granting of a divorce in the interests of the parties."

Mr. Chown's resolution envisaged a draft bill which could be adopted by any province wishing to do so.

Dies in Plunge

QUESNEL (CP)—The first fall of snow of the winter resulted in the death of a 52-year-old man, James Russell, who got stuck on a hill five miles south of here Thursday night. While attempting to get up the hill his car slipped off the road and over a 200-foot bank.

'MUST BRIDGE GAP'

Trading Divides NATO Countries

PARIS (AP)—Legislators from the 15 North Atlantic Treaty countries were told today western Europe must bridge the gap between its two rival trading groups or face serious political as well as economic consequences.

A report to the annual NATO parliamentarians conference described relations between the six-nation Common Market and British led "Outer Seven" as a "most urgent" problem facing the western alliance.

All the Common Market nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—are also members of NATO. But three of the seven in the free trade zone—Austria, Sweden and Switzerland—are not.

Vast Credit Export Plan Announced

OTTAWA (CP)—A major new joint program by the government and chartered banks to provide credit for Canadian exports of capital goods was unveiled in the Commons today by Trade Minister Hees.

Aimed at meeting credit competition in world markets by foreign suppliers, the plan will see establishment of a new financing company by Canada's nine chartered banks, backed by government cash and credit.

Officials said it could ultimately provide as much as $700,000,000 in medium and long-term credit for exporters. Of this, $200,000,000 would be available from federal funds with the rest being raised by the new company.

MEET COMPETITION

Mr. Hees, in his announcement, described the plan as establishing "new and fully adequate export financing facilities" and said Canadian exporters of capital goods "will thus be enabled to meet credit competition from foreign suppliers."

Capital goods exporters who had hesitated to seek new business for lack of credit "now have the assured support they need," Mr. Hees said. It would mean increased employment. It now was up to the exporters "to utilize the tools."

The Commons opposition voiced qualified approval.

Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier) said the move is "certainly most desirable at this time" of increased export competition.

CCF Leader Argue said the plan "should fill an important need."

NEW BORROWING POWER

Government sources said no new legislation will be required. In effect, the scheme will put the present powers of the government's Export Credits Insurance Corporation to new uses.

Officials said the main effect of the new scheme will be to enable the banks through the new company to borrow money—in a way they haven't been able to before—in order to finance exports on terms of up to five years. They would do this on the strength of repayment guarantees on export deals now provided by the export credits insurance corporation.

TIMES APPEAL BEGINS FOR 'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

The Times today launched its eighth annual year-end appeal on behalf of the Unitarian Services Committee which takes food and essentials from Canada to undernourished children in other lands.

This year's appeal is for "Children of India."

Fuller details of the campaign appear on Page 21 with a story reporting an address Thursday night by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, the USC director.

In the last seven years the Times has raised close to $75,000 for the good work done by the USC.

The 1960 appeal is to cover costs of distributing the staples of life such as powdered milk, rice and soya beans to impoverished children in India. It is hoped to exceed the $11,000 mark of last year.

The fund has already reached $423.81. It was started with $100 contributed by the Times.

ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Pearson Raps Tory Inaction

VANCOUVER (CP)—National Liberal Leader Lester Pearson issued a caustic blast at the Diefenbaker government today for inaction on what he termed "increasing unemployment" across Canada.

Mr. Pearson's message was given to 150 delegates from across the province, meeting in a one-day convention of the B.C. Liberal Association.

The national leader expressed regret that the affairs of Parliament kept him in Ottawa but gave his message by means of a recording.

The delegates, meeting in a West Vancouver hall, testooned with such placards as "Peace, Prosperity, Pearson" and "Have Grit, Will Govern," also heard provincial leader Ray Perrault issue an appeal to all working people to support the Liberal party as individuals.

Mr. Pearson said the worst aspect of Canada's economic situation is "the increasing unemployment."

"It is intolerable that at the end of October, 5.7 per cent of our work force should be unemployed—the figure is higher in B.C.—as against 4 per cent the same time last year," Mr. Pearson said.

"An increase of 117,000 cannot be dismissed by the government jeering at those who call attention to it as prophets of doom and gloom. The real doomsters are those Tories who as late as six months ago refused to recognize the fact and now, too late, are trying to deal with them in measures which will not be good enough to meet the situation."

A hundred of the country's leading citizens have been enlisted in the campaign to "gain better international understanding of South Africa." The drive is expected to cost several million pounds.

It is to be directed by an organization known as the South African Foundation, set up last December and including English and Afrikaans-speaking leaders. Described as completely independent of South Africa's white supremacy Nationalist government, the foundation has established contacts with influential friends of South Africa in Europe, the United States and Canada.

South Africa Seeks World Popularity

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africa is undertaking a massive campaign to win friends abroad and repair its international reputation, damaged by bloody racial disorders and political unrest this year.

A hundred of the country's leading citizens have been enlisted in the campaign to "gain better international understanding of South Africa." The drive is expected to cost several million pounds.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

A 'Sometime' Situation

On the topic of traffic lights, M.F.R. asks, "Are you allowed to turn right on the red light at a multi-phase traffic signal?"

The answer to this is, "Sometimes."

The multi-phase signal allows three or more separate traffic movements at an intersection, as compared with two movements at an ordinary traffic light.

Essentially, the rule about making a right turn applies here unless there is other instruction to a driver ... You can turn right on a red light, after you have stopped, provided the way is clear.

At Yates and Douglas there is a sign at each corner prohibiting such a movement.

There is similar other instruction at one corner of a multi-phase layout at Oak Bay junction, for southbound traffic on Fort intending to go west on Pandora.

A turn here must be made only with a signal by a green arrow, and then only from the proper, outside lane.

But across Pandora, for northbound traffic on Fort intending to turn east on

Special Session Saturday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons today that he will sit in on a new round of high-level talks to be held here Saturday in an effort to avert the "catastrophic results" of a nation-wide railway strike.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will attend the meetings along with Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

The first conference is between the government team and representatives of the 15 unions that have called the strike for Dec. 3.

The second conference is with presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and N. R. Crump of the CPR, the prime minister said.

PLANS UNDISCLOSED

The prime minister did not disclose what the government plans to do about the impending strike threat.

He said that when the three-minister cabinet team met with the union negotiators last week in Montreal they pointed out that railway revenues are frozen by a government edict until the MacPherson royal commission on transportation makes its report "on or before" March 31, 1961.

He indicated it was on this basis that the government asked the unions to postpone the strike—a move turned down officially Monday by chief union negotiator Frank H. Hall of Montreal.

The prime minister said Saturday's meetings were called in view of the catastrophic results that would follow a national interruption of railway services.

MAY ASK COMPROMISE

Although the government is keeping its possible plans to avert a strike in closely-guarded secret, there are indications it may propose a compromise settlement with the 111,000 "non-op" workers getting half of the 14-cent hourly wage boost recommended by the federal conciliation board.

The other seven-cent hourly boost would be left to an impartial arbitrator to consider on the basis of wage trends in the durable goods industry which the unions want as the yardstick of pay on the railways.

The conciliation report, written by Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain of Calgary and supported by union nominee David Lewis of Toronto, proposed a 14-cent hourly increase to be paid in three steps. It called for two cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, five cents an hour on Sept. 1, plus four per cent next May 1.

Layoffs Begin

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR and CPR have begun to lay off employees across the country as the result of a nation-wide rail strike by non-operating employees called for Dec. 3, a railway source said today.

LONDON—Anthony Watts was 90 miles from home on a wet and windy night when his 24-year-old automobile coughed and spluttered to a halt. Angrily he grabbed a hammer from the tool kit and broke the car into bits. On a piece of battered bodywork he scribbled a farewell note: "Take it easy—but take it."

Police found the wreckage the next morning alongside the highway. They traced the owner through the licence plates.

Watts was brought into court Thursday for violating the 1958 Litter Act and fined £5.

CHATHAM, N.B. — Yvon Durelle, the New Brunswick fisherman who became Canadian and British Empire light-heavyweight champion, is in trouble with the income tax department.

Durelle, who retired this year from fighting, will appear in court here Dec. 2 on charges of failing to pay his 1959 income tax. A court-house official confirmed the date of the hearing, but no details were available.

Chris Shaban of Moncton, Durelle's fight manager, estimated Yvon's earnings in 1959 from fishing and fighting at about $18,000.

Durelle pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared in court here earlier.

BRISTOL, England — Mrs. Annie Marie Pansons was fined $5.40 for failing to halt when a policeman asked her to stop running.

"I weigh 15 stone (210 pounds)," she explained, "and I was afraid if I stopped running I'd fall over."

NEW YORK — The city park department has tested its swings with two 350-pound gorillas to see if the playground toys are safe for children.

A park department official was quoted in a National Geographic Magazine article by Stuart E. Jones as saying that the 20-year-old gorillas banged the swings against brick walls, tried to chew them, and twisted them on their chains. The swings withstood the tests and were ruled safe for children. The gorillas received swings of their own in their cages.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies today held a 44-year-old mother of 10 on charges she contributed to the delinquency of her 16-year-old husband.

Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Majors said Mrs. Elizabeth Young and her husband, Robert Buchanan, insisted their Oct. 28 marriage in Tijuana, Mexico, was based on "true love."

Majors said the woman—married twice before—was expecting a child by Buchanan. The baby will be her 11th child. The teen-aged husband was taken to Juvenile Hall pending further proceedings.

Officers said Mrs. Young told them the marriage licence was to be mailed from Tijuana, but had not arrived yet. She thus was booked under the name Young rather than Buchanan.

The couple was taken into custody Thursday by officers who acted on an anonymous telephone tip.

BELLEVILLE, N.J. — Ross Fulmore was so grateful to the 60 firemen who spent three hours extinguishing a blaze at his house Thursday that he gave them his Thanksgiving turkey.

Then Fulmore, his wife, and eight relatives went to a restaurant for their own meal.

A fire of unknown origin broke out as the Fulmores were sitting down for dinner.

WASHINGTON — The wrong done Ding Wong which benefitted Ding Wong has been straightened out.

The only way to understand this Chinese puzzle is to wing back in time four years and start at the beginning. In 1956, a car driven by Ding Wong struck a pedestrian. The man sued and won a $25,000 judgment.

The security bank, receiving a court order to turn over the account of "Ding Wong, also known as Dong Wong," gave the injured pedestrian the $2,200 savings of Dong Wong, no relation to the driver in the accident.

Three months ago, Dong, a retired restaurant owner, returned from two years in New York City and went to the bank to withdraw his savings. When he found them gone, he sued the bank.

Yesterday, Ding, now 73; Dong, now 61; the pedestrian, bank officials and their lawyers met to straighten out the tangle.

The bank admitted its mistake and gave Dong his money with interest and an allowance for lawyers' fees. Dong promptly opened a new account in the bank.

MOURNING U.K. GYPSIES HURL MUD AT NEWSMEN

YEOVIL, Eng. (Reuters)—Angry Gypsies pelted television and newsreel cameramen with mud in a cemetery here Thursday when Gypsy queen Eliza Hughes, 80, was buried.

Police were called to restore order. Some of the Gypsies, including Eliza's son Maurice, were against any pictures being taken.

People broke through police barriers and caused a mile-long traffic jam as the hearse and mourners passed through this southwest town on the way to the cemetery. After the burial, the final rites were enacted—Eliza's pony was shot and her caravan was burned.

Eliza, who died last week, will be succeeded by her daughter, Nella.

but for a start five overshadowing developments should be noted immediately by the public, as they must soon be mastered by Western statesmen. For there is not much time left, this side of calamity.

First, the creation of the opulent European Common Market, though itself a masterpiece of genius and courage, has split the economy of Europe in two and threatens serious damage to the rest of the North Atlantic community.

Second, after an almost unbelievable recovery from war and ruin, a Britain outwardly more prosperous than ever is moving fast toward a foreign exchange emergency which may well reduce its imports of goods and its vital exports of capital.

System Unbalanced

Third, West Germany's unequalled economic success is piling up trade surpluses and hence gold reserves at the expense of all its trading partners, thereby unbalancing the free world's money system.

Fourth, the United States, as the central banker of the West, is suffering a hemorrhage of gold and the value of its currency is endangered.

Fifth, Canada as a great trading nation is not only affected by the general climate of the West but has created by its own follies a special native crisis, of which a gigantic balance-of-payments deficit, a return to deficit finance and high unemployment are merely the outward symptoms.

Solution Possible

Such, in rough diagram, is the real economic anatomy of the West revealed, as it were, by the X-rays of the non-partisan economists beneath the outward image painted thinly by the bewildered politicians of all parties.

But a sixth and more hopeful fact must now be noted: The nations of the European Common Market have proved, against all prediction, that they can break through the barriers to prosperity and, by rationalizing their several economies, can make the whole much greater than the sum of its parts.

The sovereign lesson of events in the last two years is that only the basic, unifying principles of the European Six, the integration of diverse national industries, can possibly assure the prosperity and the military strength of the North Atlantic region.

Terrifying Choice

Yet the incredible success of the Six is not enough. On the contrary, that success, if unwise used, can of itself disrupt the free world's business and, incidentally, confront Canada with a terrifying choice between conflicting evils.

As subsequent reports will try to show, the choice not only for Canada but for all the North Atlantic nations is between a decline of power and a breakthrough to a new pinnacle of prosperity.

at present, to provide the funds when export deals must be financed for longer than five years. It is authorized to provide up to $200,000,000 for this purpose.

The new credit facilities will not cover exports of consumer goods.

The United States provides long-term credit terms under its Export-Import Bank, and officials said all of the European Common Market countries have government-supported financing facilities of one type or another. The program will operate this way: The company to be set up by the banks will provide credit for terms up to five years, getting its funds by borrowing on the market. Its security will be the promissory notes of the import buyers, insured by the Export Credits Insurance Corporation.

'I Saw Car... Hollered... Then That Was It'

Preliminary hearing of a criminal negligence charge following the highway deaths of brothers Jack and Tom Cameron of Colwood was adjourned Thursday to Dec. 6 after key witnesses were heard.

On trial in Colwood police court was William John Stewart, 47, of Kemp Lake Road, Sooke. Charge was laid after the Cameron brothers were crushed to death between their tow truck and a car, which was struck by another car about 1.15 a.m., Oct. 21.

Evidence was given at the hearing that Stewart's ability to drive at the time of the accident was impaired by alcohol.

The Camerons had pulled a car owned by Gerald J. Van Humbeck, a Sooke logger, out of the ditch, when they were crushed.

Van Humbeck testified he had been going home from a party when he had been blinded by the headlights of an oncoming car on the Sooke Road near Dewdney Flats, and his own car had gone into the ditch.

He said Tom Cameron drove by, saw the car in the ditch, and stopped. Van Humbeck and Tom Cameron then drove to Glen Lake, where Tom made a phone call.

They returned to Van Humbeck's car, and shortly after Jack Cameron arrived in the tow truck from Cameron's Royallite Service Station, operated by the brothers.

BETWEEN

The Van Humbeck car was dragged from the ditch, and the two brothers were between it and the tow truck to hitch it up.

"They were bending down to tie the car on when they got hit," Van Humbeck told the court.

"I was standing beside the wrecker when I saw this car coming. I figured he wasn't going to stop so I hollered. Then that was it. They got hit."

"I went over to Jack. He just looked like death to me and I just put him down. Tommy was trying to sit up so I went over to him. The wrecker was on his feet so I moved the wrecker off."

Van Humbeck said the wrecker had its headlights on, also the amber flasher on the roof and the clearance lights.

Under cross-examination by James Proudfoot, defence counsel, he said he couldn't say for sure that the headlights were on but he thought so.

He said the wrecker was on the wrong side of the road when the Stewart car plowed into the front of it.

Constable Daniel G. Creally of the Colwood RCMP testified that when he arrived on the scene, he had difficulty with the accused in trying to keep him calm and out of the road, and that the accused smelled strongly of alcohol.

He said Stewart admitted being driver of the car.

Dr. E. L. McNiven testified that he had examined Stewart at Colwood detachment headquarters and reached the conclusion that the accused's ability to drive had been impaired by alcohol.

Grits Score Delay On Housing Action

(From Times News Service)

(Times News Services)
OTTAWA—For nearly two days the Liberals sat strangely quiet in the Commons, keeping their powder dry and watching passively while two dozen Conservative backbenchers rose to praise the government's new housing act amendments.

Thursday they opened fire. They ripped into the government with charges that it had delayed the measures too long to be of any major help in cutting winter unemployment—that the delay had caused 150,000 men to join the jobless ranks this year.

But when it came time to vote on second reading of the legislation—or approval of it in principle—they stood in favor, joining the CCF in support of the government proposals. The government ranks demanded a roll-call vote. It was 155 to 0.

The bitterness of debate may have set the tone for the new session. The "little man" was conjured up by both sides, and they argued who had done more for him in terms of housing.

Liberal speakers accused the government of failing to heed a current "recession" and of an unjustified tight-money, high-interest policy. The Liberals made unemployment a sounding board.

At issue were Works Minis-

Warned Program Inadequate

Paul Hellyer (L-Toronto Trinity) recalled that Mr. Walker was warned by the opposition at the last session—earlier this year—that his 1960 housing program was hopelessly inadequate, and that he called the Liberals "gloomsters."

"We were right and the minister was wrong," Mr. Hellyer said. Instead of the 140,000 housing units forecast at the start of the year, there would be about 110,000 units started. Using Mr. Walker's estimate that each house employs five men for six months, Mr. Hellyer said 30,000 fewer houses mean 150,000 fewer jobs.

Senate government leader Walter Acland said Thursday his counterpart on the opposition side, Senator W. Ross Macdonald, obviously "hasn't read the Throne Speech."

Senator Macdonald Wednesday called the speech a "grab bag," not received with great enthusiasm by any group in Canada.

Senator Acland said press, radio and TV praised the speech and that the Liberal leader obviously hadn't read the newspapers, listened to the commentators or read the Speech from the Throne.

Kennedy Baby Arrives With a Flourish

WASHINGTON (AP)—A six-pound three-ounce son with dark hair was born today to President-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

The baby arrived with a dramatic flourish: An ambulance hurried the mother to a hospital, a plane rushed the father back to the capital from Florida.

Both mother and son were reported doing fine.

The baby was the second child and the first son for the 43-year-old Kennedy and his 31-year-old wife. Their daughter, Caroline, will be three Sunday.

Doctors delivered the boy by caesarean section.

Mrs. Kennedy had said earlier that the child, if a boy, would be named John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr.

But, just a few hours after Kennedy left, Dr. John Walsh called an ambulance to hurry Mrs. Kennedy to the Georgetown University medical center, a Roman Catholic hospital.

The ambulance driver, William Baucon, said he overheard Mrs. Kennedy, who has a history of miscarriages, ask her doctor if she was going to lose the baby.

The driver said Dr. Walsh replied, "No, don't worry." Baucon said Mrs. Kennedy then began "smiling like a baby doll."

Needed: A New Broom

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT the Victoria Arena Commission had reached a "compromise" in the dispute over management affairs, and had received a vote of confidence from City Council, is the latest illogical and unsatisfactory development in the whole unhappy saga of the past six weeks.

It will be recalled that Commission Chairman Frank Mulliner at first dismissed stories of Arena troubles as "gossip." When six members of the staff resigned, including the key office personnel, he attributed it to "a clash of personalities... an internal matter." A few days later, under prodding from the press and interested parties, he conceded that Arena manager Joe Dukowski had been "severely reprimanded." When the disaffected employees engaged counsel to present their complaints, a series of emergency meetings was held behind closed doors.

Out of these meetings came Mr. Dukowski's resignation, which was accepted "with regret," and a notice of intention to resign by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, who argued that the manager should be dismissed forthwith and the former employees restored to their posts. Now, after a late-night meeting designed to keep the debate out of City Council, the Commission has emerged to say that all is in hand: Mr. Dukowski will be leaving shortly; Mr. Haddock has been persuaded to rejoin the fold; and that there is no need for further inquiry.

The public, quite understandably, is mystified by all this. Why, if the Commission is so pleased with Mr. Dukowski's performance, and the Council so confident of the Commission's good judgment, did Mr. Dukowski resign? Why has the Commission refrained from making a full, public statement? What are the facts behind the staff resignations?

The facts, as the Times has been able to ascertain them, convey quite a different picture from that presented by the Commission, and now endorsed by City Council.

They show that Mr. Dukowski has been an autocratic and bullying employer, who barred Commissioners from his office and reduced women members of his staff to tears with profane and abusive language. They show, as has already been published, that he placed his own daughter and son-in-law on the Arena payroll, to the detriment of at least one union employee. They show that Mr. Dukowski used Arena employees, on Arena time, for occasional work on his own home and boat.

One would have expected, when these charges were placed before the Arena Commission, and admitted by Dukowski, that they would have dismissed the manager immediately. Instead, they announced some days later that they were accepting his resignation "with regret," and expressed gratitude at his suggestion that he should stay on for another three months!

How does the 'Arena Commission "compromise" with these findings? Are they to be allowed to compromise on matters of principle, so fundamental and so obvious? And why have the Mayor and Council been so anxious to keep this debate behind closed doors, and to express their confidence in the Commission?

The inescapable conclusion is that a public hearing would have made the Commission look foolish. They did not know what was going on at the Arena. They lost by default. So strong had the Arena manager become in his own domain, so all-powerful, that he could, in one fit of pique, brazenly order his staff to "keep Commissioners out."

In a sense, deterioration was inevitable. Four of the Commissioners are retired or elderly gentlemen. At least two have been out of the city in 1960 for months at a time. There is an honorary post, with few incentives for regular attendance at meetings. Their only perquisites have been free parking space, passes to the hockey games — which Commissioner Haddock refused to accept — and other Arena attractions.

As they are well-known and respected citizens, the Councilors who appointed them to office doubtless were anxious to save them the embarrassment of a public hearing, where more dirty linen would be washed and more deficiencies revealed.

Such a hearing would be costly, and may not now be necessary. But Thursday's announcement does not clean up the Arena mess. The "compromise" will not wash.

As a disgruntled retiring employee, Mr. Dukowski should be released immediately and an interim staff installed, with Mr. Noakes restored to duty as office manager, until such time as a new Arena chief can be appointed. There will be no shortage of applicants.

Secondly, the resignation of Commission Chairman Mulliner should be invited and the Commission itself reconstituted with a new, vigorous and alert executive. Mr. Mulliner is an honorable and well-intentioned citizen but the cruel fact is that he has made a botch of this appointment.

As it stands today, the job is only half finished. The Mayor and Council should waste no time in completing the renovation, for only then will full public confidence in Memorial Arena be restored.

The Vote in Joliette

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF BY-election results in the Quebec provincial constituencies of Joliette and Rouville will be recognized by most Canadians.

In each case the contest was won by a Liberal. The vote in Joliette is particularly important. Since 1935 the seat had been held by Antonio Barette, who assumed leadership of the Union Nationale upon the untimely death of Premier Sauve.

When a seat considered as safe for the Union Nationale as Joliette is lost, the low ebb of Union Nationale fortunes is fully revealed.

The outcome shows the steady consolidation effected by Premier Jean Lesage, whose administration is Liberal with both a capital and lower case "L." Following his close general election victory last June he is apparently solidifying French Canada behind him in a process that is good for Canada in general.

The results afford no comfort to Mr. Diefenbaker in Ottawa. Before him is placed added evidence of the way in which Quebec is turning from the Conservatives and their political allies.

'No Illiterates Need Apply'

THE TULSA TRIBUNE NOTES editorially the University of Illinois announcement that "no illiterate freshmen need apply."

The newspaper explains that many American institutions of "higher learning" have been forced to accept as students almost any young person with a high school diploma and many of them have not sufficient skill to comprehend what they read or to make themselves clear in what they write.

Illinois has apparently drawn the line on what appears to be a shocking situation.

But before any Victoria, B.C., critic clucks a tongue, let him consider the story Dr. R. G. Lawrence of Victoria College told an audience at the public library the other night. Dr. Lawrence divided students coming to college into three classes: 20 per cent who were readers and who had prepared themselves for college work, 60 per cent who were "almost readers" and who could be encouraged to read enough to get some grasp of their subjects, and 20 per cent non-readers, who had no familiarity with books.

In the third category he classed one young lady whom he said was "working at" College English. She had not read a book before reaching college, she confessed, used jacket blurbs to handle book review assignments at high school and wasn't, the professor noted, distinguishing herself in the college course.

However, he added, the young lady had acquired sufficient credits to qualify in some way to leave the institution as a teacher of elementary grades.

When last he spoke to her she had suffered acute nervousness over an assignment requiring her to teach Stevenson's "Treasure Island," which she had never read, to a junior grade class.

Her capacities in English, Dr. Lawrence believed, would help to make non-readership self-perpetuating.

They're having a bad time with "illiterates" in some United States universities. But let's not shake the finger too vigorously at the Americans.

THE EXPERT STICKS HIS NECK OUT

A Tie May Indicate Character, But Who Is the Character?

AS so often happens, London is the source of a new theory of dress. Paris for new theories about women's dress; London for ditto about men's ditto.

Tobin

And this time it concerns the esoteric philosophy of neckties. A London psychologist has drawn up a number of facts to be learned from the type of tie a man wears and his manner of wearing it. Presumably these facts are for the use of women who may wish to assess the quality of a man before measuring his neck for a halter.

According to the expert a woolen tie denotes generosity in the wearer, a square-ended tie extravagance, a small knot indicates reliability and tidiness, and so on.

Now this may be all very well. The colors, materials, styles and preferences may indeed indicate personal qualities and characteristics as claimed by the expert. But whose personal qualities and characteristics? That seems to be something the psychologist has overlooked.

Surely it can be accepted as a basic fact that ninety per cent of men wear ties that have been given to them, Christmas, birthdays and other anniversaries come frequently enough to keep the average man well-stocked, particularly if he is the very common type who prefers to wear one tie day in and day out until in six months or more it is unwearable and he can switch to another.

In this situation, whose personal qualities and characteristics are being displayed? Surely not the wearer's, since he has used no personal qualities in the selection of the tie. And since the material and shape of the tie pretty well govern the style of knot and other details, it follows that the average tie wearer is merely a convenient display rack for whatever he carries around his neck.

So whose personal qualities and characteristics are on view? The giver's of course.

Thus, Joe Doakes, who strides down the street wearing a printed silk tie, is advertising, not that he is a thrifty individual—as the psychologist would have us believe—but merely that his Aunt Belinda, who gave him the tie last Christmas, enjoys that admirable quality.

And Jim Jones, looking very generous in his knitted tie, may be the most miserly fellow in the crowd. It's just that his Cousin Adele saw it on a counter during a visit to San Francisco, and thought it would make an acceptable home-coming gift.

And as for a hand-woven silk tie indicating obstinacy—why, poor Willie Smithkins who habitually wears one is the least obstinate of mortals. In fact his very appearance in the tie is living proof that he is not obstinate—at least not so obstinate as his wife who bought six of the hand-woven silk jobs at a bazaar at a bargain price and is determined that Willie shall reap the full benefit of her purchase.

And so it goes. What will the psychologist decide in the case of John Wilkins who, unlike most of his friends, wears a different tie almost every day?

On Monday he is seen in Aunt Sadie's neat bow tie (an individualist); on Tuesday, Cousin Roberta's square-ended cravat (extravagant); on Wednesday, his mother's printed silk (thrifty); on Thursday, a white tie he won at a bridge party (moral laxity); on Friday, a narrow tie that snugs into a small knot (reliability); on Saturday, a dull brocade his sister sent him from Toronto (lacking in courage); and on Sunday no tie at all (self-sufficiency and confidence).

No man could be all these things on consecutive days. The psychological theory at once breaks down.

Personally, I prefer my own tie, which demonstrates a number of well-defined characteristics. I like to think that its ink spots, soap stains, creases and generally weathered appearance indicate perseverance, loyalty, long-suffering patience, durability and a dogged never-say-die spirit that should excite general admiration.

Needless to say, in this case these are the attributes of the tie, not of its wearer.

THE ESTIMATE THAT FELL SHORT

'Never Before Such an Unbroken Record of Deficits'

OTTAWA: What has befallen Hon. Donald Fleming's expected $12 million surplus for the current fiscal year, 1960-61? The year ends on March 31, 1961.

When ministers of finance prepare their annual budgets, the calculations are far more carefully made than in previous days.

The dominion bureau of statistics is a much more efficient organization today than in former times. The skill of the statisticians and mathematicians in the government's service is more effectively used than ever before.

The one uncertain quantity in every budget is the forecast of business conditions and of federal revenues. Treasury officials work with much sharper tools than are available to the general public.

But the basic facts are equally available to the public and the government. The bureau of statistics, no doubt, does special studies for purposes of budget calculations. But the published reports of the bureau are available to the public.

The minister of finance bases his estimate of revenue for the year ahead on the bureau of statistics' figures on the gross national product.

Expected Gain

Mr. Fleming, last March 31, made his estimate on an expected six per cent gain in GNP in 1960. The GNP in 1959 had been $34,593 billions. In round figures, Mr. Fleming estimated that GNP in 1960 would increase to $36.5 or $37 billions. This increase, at the maximum, would be a slightly greater gain than six per cent. (Hansard p. 2674).

Taxation has been virtually unchanged since 1958 and if you take federal revenue figures as a percentage of gross national output, you will discover that revenues run at about 18 per cent of GNP.

Here, of course, the government in making the budget can work with sharper tools. The GNP can be broken down in ways that enable a more exact estimate to be made. But 18 per cent is a dependable over-all way of estimating revenue.

Point number one, therefore, is that the gross national product has not increased as Mr. Fleming predicted. The GNP rose in the first quarter of 1960 from the annual 1959 rate of $34,593 millions to $35,624 millions. And, in the second quarter the annual rate fell to $35,048 millions.

Revenue Increase

The increase in annual federal revenue—using the 18 per cent measure—would be only $180 millions instead of Mr. Fleming's estimate of $591 millions.

Falling a sudden and rocket-like improvement in business in the last half of 1960, Mr. Fleming will be short $411 millions in his expected revenue. This wipes out his predicted $12 million surplus and confronts him with a deficit on account of falling revenue of $400 millions.

This, of course, is not the full picture.

In estimating expenditures, the government always includes foreseeable items. Not all the supplementary estimates, introduced in the later stages of a session, are in addition to the budget estimate of expenditures. But in the present year one or two items could scarcely have been foreseen on March 31 last.

One such item is the $42 millions voted for western farmers. This estimate was brought down on Aug. 2. The deficits of the Canadian National Railways are paid annually by parliament and are always estimated in advance.

There is bound to have been a large under-estimate of the deficit this year. Railway business has fallen off badly in the last few months. How great this error will be cannot be said with certainty. But $25 millions would be a safe guess.

So to the deficit figure of $400 millions, add $67 millions on account of these two items.

On the expenditure side, there is much leeway which cannot be gauged with precision. The original main estimates, introduced in parliament at the beginning of a session, are always well padded.

There are votes which are not fully spent. These items are known in the finance department as "lapses." And the most fruitful sources of such savings are in the defence and public works departments. For example, in 1959-60, the defence department allowed $175 millions to lapse.

It is easy to discover the total of these lapses in past years. But it would be unprofitable for present purposes. In normal times, a total of $200 million would not be excessive. But in bad times, with much unemployment, it is most unlikely that many authorized expenditures would go unspent. In such times, the total of the "lapses" would be small.

Comparative Figures

In this calculation no reliance has been placed upon the monthly revenue and expenditure figures issued by the department of finance. The latest report is for September and shows the total revenues for the fiscal year (April to September inclusive) at $2,723.5 millions, against $2,479.2 millions for the corresponding period of 1959.

Expenditures for these periods are $2,698 millions against $2,584.3 a year ago. But these figures are meaningless. Corporation income tax figures, taken in this way, are wholly deceptive. So are expenditure figures.

Taking the gross national product figures for the first half of the year, making allowance for unforeseen expenditures and for possible economies on expenditures lapses, it is plain that the Diefenbaker government is facing a large deficit.

Larger Total

Instead of a surplus of $12 millions, there will be a deficit of not less than $300 millions.

If business conditions become much worse this total could reach $400 millions. In addition, there are the 1960-61 cash requirements of $225 millions. The Diefenbaker government will require this year at least $525 millions—$300 budget deficit plus $225 other needs.

Adding these figures to the past record of the Diefenbaker government yields this result: (the figures are taken from the budget speeches of 1958, 1959 and 1960, and from the Canadian Tax Foundation annual reviews of the "National Finances.")

Budget	Cash	Total
Deficit	Needs	Deficit
(Millions)
1957-58	$ 39	$ 124
1958-59	$ 650	$ 785
1959-60	$ 406	$ 3-409
1960-61
(estimate)	$ 300	$ 240
	$ 1,395	$ 1,152
	$ 2,547

Never before in peacetime has there been such an unbroken record of deficits, and of the magnitude of these. Never before have the finances of this country been so badly managed.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Some Cannot Give

I would like to add my comments to those made re the Community Chest donations (or lack of). The theme seems to be that it is simply incredible that one "can't afford" to contribute.

May I, as the wife of a Federal Civil Servant explain why I could not.

My husband's take-home pay is $217 per month. Add to this the family allowance of $12 and our monthly income is $229. For an old-fashioned house with splintering floors and a 10 x 30 patch of ground we pay $60. Gas and electricity cost us $15. Life Insurance for my husband and our two children ($5,000 in my husband's case which wouldn't go far) cost us $19. Telephone $4.50, water $2.75, church contributions $2. Gas, oil, etc. for our car (9-year-old) $10. Food and household supplies $80. (We are obviously not dining on steak.)

My husband and I both smoke and by doing it ourselves spend $8 per month on that. Also we extravagantly spend $3.50 for one book and the Times. This totals $204.75 and leaves us $23.25 for heat, clothing, doctor bills, hair cuts, dry cleaning, stamps, furniture, gifts and entertainment.

In 1½ years I've been able to spend $26 on clothing for the children. This month the insurance on the car is due. I've had to have optical and dental work done (not covered by insurance.) So far this year we've been able to heat the house with wood collected from the beaches. The last time my husband and I had a "night out" was in September 1959.

Needless to say we don't have a TV set, vacuum cleaner or anything a lot of people take for granted. We buy $200 government bonds each year. This was a long range plan to own a home of our own some day but each year we have had to cash them to meet ever-mounting expenses. Last year it paid for a trip East to attend my father's funeral. This year it will pay dental bills—and I hope will buy the children something for Christmas.

Please don't think we don't want to support the Chest. We know it deserves support and we would if we could.

Am I selfish in wanting to provide first for my family and then my neighbors? If so, I'm guilty. I am also guilty of saying "My husband contributes to work." Would the canvasser have believed me if I had said truthfully "I can't afford it?"

"ECONOMIST"

DENNIS THE MENACE

From Our Files

Nov. 25, 1900—Only offender in city police court today was Lucy, a coy, shrinking aboriginal dame, whose taste for liquor was responsible for a $5 depletion of her personal exchequer.

Nov. 25, 1920—After two hours of bickering and cross charges, the Workmen's Compensation Board and Victoria hospitals today reached agreement on hospital payments for board patients.

Nov. 25, 1940—London: The capture of 8,000 more Italian troops by the Greeks was announced today. Heavy fighting is reported in all areas.

Let's End Handouts

The last few days have seen the close of a canvass for funds for the Community Chest and the opening of yet another one for the churches, and so it goes on and on. Nobody can deny that the need is there nor is the long-suffering public unsympathetic, but with the rising cost of essential commodities and present unemployment, the public just does not have the money.

Instead of going through this year after year with the subsequent failures, let's try another idea. It is not new, but it could work if certain groups would let it work. If the B.C. Government could find ways and means to legalize and operate sweepstakes they would have money coming in not only from the rest of Canada but from all over the world. Money to build, staff and operate hospitals; money to meet the needs of the Community Chest, churches, and anything else of a worthy nature; and in time even the construction of schools.

Try it, say, for a period of five years and if at the end of that time it was proved impractical then scrap it, but anything that can be made to work for the good of the people is worth earnest consideration and a try, and let's put an end to this constant demand for a hand-out from the public.

A Touch of Nostalgia

WASHINGTON — I daresay that not many former movie queens would be willing to serve on a government committee which is studying the problems of old people.

Most former movie queens would rather be panelists on "Youth Wants to Know."

So I think we ought to tip our hats to Mary Pickford for performing an unusual public service. She was here last week attending a meeting of the advisory board of the White House conference on aging.

It so happens that I began going to movies during the time that Miss Pickford was reigning as "America's Sweetheart" in the days of the silent films. But for some reason I didn't retain a very clear image of her.

Tom Mix I remember very well. And Hoot Gibson. And William S. Hart. But Miss Pickford didn't get through to me. I must have been too young to be interested in girls.

I seem to remember that she was an actress of the eye-batting school. Every time that something bad, or good, happened on the screen, there would be a close-up of Miss Pickford batting her eyes. But I may have been confused with Lillian Gish.

At any rate, it was that old nostalgia feeling that drew me to a news conference held by Miss Pickford. You might say that I went to the conference on aging in hopes of recapturing my own youth.

I don't know how old Miss Pickford is now—she wouldn't tell us—but I can report that she is still blonde of hair, blue of eye and round of face. She also is still short of figure. She had to sit on a book in order to see over the desk.

When I first arrived, I had an uneasy feeling that Miss Pickford was going to do a striptease. She took off her sun glasses and then began undoing her bracelet. But she was only obliging the photographers.

She had some trouble with the bracelet clasp and a photographer went over to offer his assistance.

"Are you a married man?" Miss Pickford asked, batting her eyes. The photographer withdrew.

Miss Pickford told us that she was no Mary-come-lately to the campaign to provide a better life for the elderly. For many years, she has been a trustee of a home for the aged in California.

But she said she personally had "no sense of growing older" and looked upon the aging process as "a waste of time."

"I'm 21 going on 20," she said. Seeing Miss Pickford made me feel better about my own approaching birthday. I think I'll go home tonight and watch an old movie on television.

Reds Push Ahead In Latin America

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Russia and Communist China are stepping up their propaganda campaign in Latin America. Both are beaming radio broadcasts in Spanish this way.

A good example of what the Communists are doing can be found in Chile.

A Russian folklore ballet company is appearing at Vina del Mar, a seaside resort, after a successful run here.

An exhibit of 500 objects of art and handicraft, including a miniature sputnik, from the Soviet Union, China, Romania, Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany is being shown in the headquarters of the Communist party of Chile.

El Siglo, the Communist daily newspaper, announces "a great festival and homage to the U.S.S.R." at a local theatre.

Several Chinese exchange students are attending the University of Chile.

Four prominent Chileans now are in Red China as guests of the Communist government.

BANNED IN 2 COUNTRIES

The folklore ballet performed in Caracas, where the dancers learned to do the Venezuelan "Joropo," but was denied permission to appear in Argentina and again in Brazil. The Russian entertainers were welcomed here.

Explained Fernando Donoso, secretary of foreign relations: "The law in Chile concerning foreigners is very liberal. They can enter the country as tourists, regardless of what country in the world they come from, without any legal inconvenience. Furthermore, they can remain in the country as long as they do not violate the laws of the republic."

Despite little advance publicity, the Communist artists packed them in at the municipal theatre, which the weekly magazine Ercilla reported was turned over to them free of charge.

The festival announced in El Siglo includes the showing of two propaganda films and a chorus from the Chilean-Soviet cultural institute here.

LONDON LETTER

'Oh, Come Off It, Mr. Coward'

LONDON—Arts and letters... Noel Coward had done everything in the writing line—plays, revues, musicals, short stories, films—except write a novel.

He has now rectified that with a book called Pomp and Circumstance, which has just been published and which has been greeted with caustic paning on all sides.

The story deals with the visit of a gay duchess to a West Indies island where they are preparing for a visit by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

During the course of the excited preparations the duchess does her best to have a rip-roaring affair with a local playboy before her dithering duke joins her. Her amorous efforts are frustrated by chicken-pox (twice).

"Oh, Come Off It, Mr. Coward" is one critic's headline.

Says another: "Mr. Coward is deservedly having a longer day than most writers, yet few can be more out of touch with the times."

And another: "Hardly the stuff to cause

By WALLACE REYBURN

a rush to the bookshops. Sad stuff, dull stuff, old stuff. Stuff, in fact, and nonsense."

Leslie Charteris, detective novel writer who created "The Saint," confesses that he is getting "lazy these days. I only write one 'Saint' book a year now," he says.

But his output over the years brings him in a very handsome steady income, judging by the fact that he steadfastly turns down big money offers from TV for rights to his saint.

"They'd probably mess it up," is his reason.

Michael Foot, Socialist writer and editor, has started work on the official biography of Aneurin Bevan, for whose constituency he is currently fighting in the by-election caused by his death.

A close friend of Bevan from 1933, he makes no bones about the fact that it will be a eulogy.

Sample Foot estimates of Nye: "He was the greatest parliamentary debater in his time. Yes, better than Churchill."

Churchill's most famous speeches were prepared oratory. Bevan was always a spontaneous debater.

"He was in some respects the outstanding socialist leader of the century; he had more original genius than any other."

Diabetes Test Campaign Date Extended

The fact that hundreds of Victorians have responded to the Canadian Diabetes' Association offer of a free test for diabetes has made it necessary to extend the campaign to the end of the month, Jack Neal, president of the local branch, CDA, made the announcement Wednesday.

He said coupons clipped from newspaper ads or picked up at drug stores should be mailed to Canadian Diabetes' Association, 76 Bloor Street West, Toronto 5, for the test kit.

MANY PROBLEMS, FEW ASSETS

A Country Too Poor To be Underdeveloped

NOUAKCHOTT, Mauritania (AP)—The Islamic republic of Mauritania achieves independence next week with many problems and few assets save its shy Moslem premier, Moktar Ould Daddah.

With almost no money in the bank and the country so poor it can hardly even be called underdeveloped, Mauritania is also in a dispute with Morocco which claims Mauritania as a "lost province."

The dispute has caused a rift in the Arab world, with ripples in broader international waters, where Morocco is pressing to forestall diplomatic recognition of the new republic when France grants it independence Monday.

Daddah scoffs at the claims of Morocco's King Mohamed V. He says they date back to antiquity and, carried to extremes, would equally allow Mauritania to lay claim to all of Morocco.

Although a few exiles Mauritians in Rabat are backing King Mohamed, he has achieved little success elsewhere. The United States and other major Western powers intend to recognize Mauritania and even Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba rebuffed the Moroccan. He is reported angry with them for pressing their claim at the risk of Arab unity, already a shaky proposition.

Daddah needs financial help from France and plans to remain a member of the French Community of states.

Daddah has had to build a capital as no cities existed in the modern sense of the word. Few buildings have been completed as yet.

RCMP Watching Nazis

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP are keeping the activities of the Nazi party in Canada under constant surveillance, Justice Minister Fulton said Thursday.

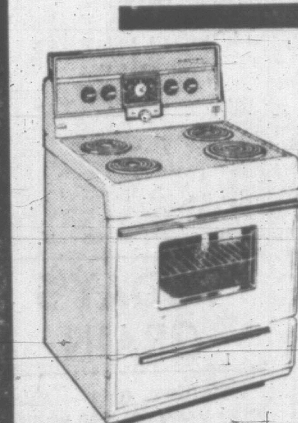

He declined, however, to report the activities of the party to the Commons.

Leon Crestohl (L. Montreal-Cartier) asked for the report as a result of an Oct. 3 CBC television program in which members of the Nazi party in Canada and the United States were interviewed. Mr. Fulton said it would not be proper to divulge police reports to the House, but the RCMP's activities could be discussed later in the session during study of justice department appropriations.

Oil, Gas Rights Sale Nets $948,983

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Sinclair Canadian Oil paid top price of $155,107 for a drilling reservation on 10,401 acres on the Alberta-B.C. border due east of Fort St. John at a government oil and gas rights sale Thursday.

Mines Minister W. K. Kierman termed the sale "average" and noted that most of the acreage offered was definitely wildcat land.

Sinclair Canadian also paid top price for an oil and gas lease with a bid of $121,107 on a 652-acre parcel at Boundary Lake just west of Imperial Pacific Boundary 123-84-14. Two other 652-acre parcels to the southeast were taken by Canadian Homestead Oil for $78,980 and Ohio Oil for $65,984.

HIGHEST BID

Highest bid on an exploration permit was Shell Oil's $86,798 for 33,475 acres east of the 123rd meridian and south of the Peace River, California Standard paid $68,727 for 97,098 acres south of the Liard River Hot Springs and $21,767 for 19,840 acres in the far southeast of British Columbia, north and east of Calistan Fording Mtn. d-61-L.

Other drilling reservations went to the Foothills Group (Wentac, Mobil, B.A. and Shell) for $45,064 for 18,440 acres northwest of Hudson Hope; 15,784 acres at Beaton River to Pure Oil for $35,190; 22,171 acres in Townships 82 and 83 for $23,363 went to Amerasia Petroleum, and 10,326 acres in Townships 83 and 84 were sold to Sinclair for $10,107.

Some of the other prices paid for oil and gas leases included: Consolidated Mac Mac and Mayfair, $55,000 for 697 acres near Milligan Creek, northwest of Union H.B. Wildmint d-46-A; Sinclair, $25,107 for 348 acres at Milligan Creek east of Union H.B. Wildmint d-46-A, and Canadian Husky and Colorado Oil & Gas, $25,149 for 348 acres adjoining the Sinclair parcel to the south.

H. Corby Distillery Ltd.

notes that its sales have been adversely affected by increased retail prices resulting from additional federal taxes and provincial markups. Net profit for the year ended Aug. 31 dropped 12 per cent below the preceding year to equal $1.25 a share compared to $1.53 a share.

By way of contrast Walker's Distillery found price boosts no handicap and reported sales increase of 7 per cent for the same year. Net profit was up 5 per cent to $2.91 a share compared to $2.76 the previous year.

Canadian steel production is falling off as seasonal demand wanes. Output last week was 106,382 tons with mills operating at 82.3 per cent of capacity for a decline of 5.2 per cent from previous week.

Fargo Oils will report another net loss for 1960 but it is not expected to be any greater than last year although less revenue is accruing to the company since sale of its Pembina field interests. Northeast B.C. and Crossfield, Alta., gas holdings are expected to be bringing in revenue by 1962.

Two Westcoast Pipeline extensions—a 52-mile 16 and 12½-inch line from Buick Creek to the East Lapsis gas field, and a 30-mile 16-inch line from Taylor to Boundary Lake field—are testing and to be completed by the week-end. Cost of the extensions was between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000.

Canadian Husky Oil warrants can be exchanged for common shares at a price of $11 up to Dec. 14 and after that date at a price of $14.

LEGEND COMES TRUE WITH ARCTIC TOYS

OTTAWA (CP)—Centuries of popular legend have come true this year with receipt of the first shipment of toys from the Arctic, Santa's traditional workshop.

The toys are on display in the National Gallery's design centre as part of a larger collection titled "Christmas Is for Children." Made by the Kikitaoyak Eskimo Co-operative Ltd. at Port Burwell, N.W.T., the $1,500 collection consists of playthings and tapestries fashioned from sealskin.

The toys now on display will go on sale in Montreal later this month.

SOAP OPERAS GURGLE DOWN CBS DRAIN

NEW YORK (AP)—This afternoon the radio network of the Columbia Broadcasting System permanently seals off the peep-holes through which millions of housewives have for many years been following the family fortunes of the Perkinses, the Malones, the Bradens and the Burtons.

In one lethal stroke, CBS erased the last of its daytime radio serials, more often called soap operas, in a sweeping program reorganization.

'BEST IN 15 YEARS OF CONCERT-GOING'

Belafonte? Folksingers Don't Need Him

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Who needed Belafonte? Probably his absence from the group that bears his name kept some people away from the Royal Theatre Thursday night. If so, they goofed badly.

And by way of heaping coals of fire, I have no hesitation in saying the delight of this evening's entertainment is unlikely to be excelled this season or next — unless the Belafonte Folksingers return — just as it is not excelled by any remembered highlight of my past 15 years of concert-going.

STORMS OF APPLAUSE

No person and no factor added to this program would have increased its effectiveness.

It was brilliantly staged, sizzling entertainment. From Bartok to boogie it blistered the proscenium paint and bewitched the audience into storms of applause, salvos of enthusiastic bravos, toe-tapping and laughter.

But fun and excitement and pulse-quickening rhythms were not all the show offered by any means.

It was musically profound enough to suit the most exacting taste.

In fact sheer artistry created the show and inspired all its components — voices, both solo and in ensemble, accompanying instruments, interpretation, dramatization, lighting, costumes.

The latter, grey trousers and jackets opening over tangerine jerseys, were effective whether the group was performing a negro prisoners' work song, the army-inspired "Old King Cole," or in the classical-romantic vein of Schubert's lovely "La Pastorella."

FINE SOLOISTS

There were several extraordinarily fine soloists who interchanged leads throughout the evening, notably Charles H. Scott Jr., who adds to his magnificent tenor voice, an unforgettable personality and exciting dramatic ability.

Ensemble work in which all colors and textures of vocal tone are used for specific effects, set always with impeccable taste, held the audience spellbound in the Grieg and Bartok group, brought unexpected beauty to "Cock Robin" and "I Kide an Old Paint."

The brilliantly gifted Robert de Cormier conducted his singers in the conservatively presented classic section of the program. At other times he pitched casually on a high stool, accompanying on guitar or banjo, or sang with the ensemble.

ADDED QUOTA

Percussion instruments and a baggy fiddle provided colorful, atmospheric accompaniment and certainly added their quota to the frenetic excitement of an African Festival Song.

Every number, whether a

a quartet
Z the scene
Z the scene

sea chanty, an American Negro gospel song or a French-Canadian logger's ditty, had its separate and individual character clearly expressed.

Come again Belafonte Folksingers — next time it will be S.F.O.

Troops on Move In East Germany

HELMSTEDT, West Germany (AP)—Heavy troop movements by the Soviet army in East Germany were reported Thursday by travellers on the highway between Berlin and the West.

Western allied military sources attributed the activity to fall manoeuvres, later than usual this year. They estimate the Russians have 300,000 to 400,000 men in East Germany, organized in 22 divisions.

RESUME HERE DEC. 8

Columbia Talks Make Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal and British Columbia governments Thursday night concluded a two-day conference in Columbia River development and scheduled a second for Victoria Dec. 8 and 9.

After that, it was indicated, both should be prepared to sit down with the United States to draft a treaty covering co-operative hydro and flood-control development for ratification by Parliament and Congress.

A meeting to start that process is expected before Christmas.

A communique issued Thursday night said negotiations over the two days covered matters related to the eventual treaty, based on principles already accepted by the Canadian and U.S. governments as published in a progress report Oct. 19.

Under these, the initial Canadian share of the project would be a $458,000,000 program involving three storage dams plus transmission lines to handle power returned by the U.S. for storage facilities in this country.

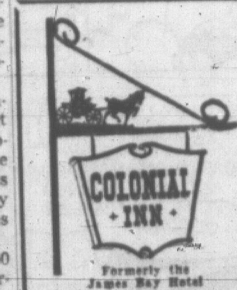

Canada's share would be 50 per cent of all power generated in the U.S. by Canadian-stored water. The communique also said that discussions covered arrangements connected with implementing the terms of the treaty in Canada.

Informants said that the two-day session featured tough bargaining but hope was expressed that the whole matter may be wound up by next summer if Canadian-B.C. agreement continues and accord is reached with the U.S.

COACH QUILTS

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — George K. (Lefty) James, 55, dean of Ivy league football coaches, has submitted his resignation as head coach at Cornell University.

SHE WON'T DINE WITH MR. CHANT

A provincial government employee won't dine with Victoria civil service executives tonight because a cabinet minister will be there.

Mrs. Florence L. Riley, a stenographer at the Legislative Buildings, has refused a special invitation to the annual executive dinner.

If the civil service is accused of "playing politics" with labor, she said, the presence of Mr. Chant can be called "playing politics, too."

Crash Kills Trainmen

PORT TALBOT, Wales (CP) — The driver of one train and the fireman on another were killed and about 30 passengers injured when two trains collided head-on Thursday night on a narrow rock shelf cut out of a cliff high over the Avon River.

25 YEARS AN M.P.

'Follow My Example' Paul Martin's Call

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Paul Martin seized on the celebration Thursday night of his 25 years as a member of Parliament to sound an appeal to Canada's young people to follow his example and embark on careers in public life.

After listening to more than three hours of laudatory speeches at a silver anniversary dinner, the Liberal member for Essex East said he liked to think of the event not as a tribute to himself but the institution of public life itself.

"I do not deny being a politician," he said. "There is nothing sinister about politics."

Next to the church, a career in politics was the highest to which any young man or woman could aspire.

WARM PRAISE HEARD

He and 1,300 guests attending the dinner in Windsor's new $2,000,000 Cleary Memorial Auditorium heard a succession of warm-hearted praise for his achievements from leading figures in his own party, from Progressive Conservatives and from community spokesmen.

The 57-year-old lawyer was elected as member for Essex East in the general election of 1936 and won re-election six times. He became parliamentary assistant to the minister of labor in 1943, entered the cabinet of the late Mackenzie King as secretary of state in 1945 and became minister of national health and welfare in 1946, retaining that portfolio until the Conservative victory in 1957.

Sixth Offence By 20-Year-Old Draws Jail Term

Reginald William Hayward, 4277 Glenford, is only 20, but was convicted Wednesday for the sixth time for driving while under suspension.

Because of the five previous convictions—the most recent just three days short of a year ago—Magistrate A. I. Thomas sentenced Hayward to 30 days in jail.

It was his first jail term for the offence.

On a charge of failing to submit accident reports, Hayward was fined $15 and $3 costs or three days in jail concurrent with the first sentence.

New Tibetan Road

DARJEELING, India (AP)—The Communist Chinese in Tibet have completed a road from Lhasa, the capital, to Yatung, near the Indian border, refugees reported Wednesday. The journey which formerly took four days by jeep now takes only a day. They said the new road is strongly guarded.

Y's Men Plan Yule Tree Festival

Victoria Y's Men's Club plans to give an added swing to Christmas festivities this year by holding a "Festival of Christmas Trees."

Purpose of the project is to raise funds for various local charities, aid youth work in the YMCA and contribute to other of the Y's Men's service works.

Trees will be judged for their uniqueness and originality. They can be made from any material—one group is reportedly making a "money tree" and another may produce a "cookie tree." Only stipulation is that the finished product resembles a Christmas tree.

Clubs, societies and individuals may enter and there is no entry fee. First prize will be worth $50, second $25, third $15 and fourth $10.

Entries will be displayed to the public in the YMCA banquet room from noon, Dec. 10, to 8 p.m., Dec. 16, when they will be auctioned.

Entry forms are available from the YMCA desk.

WELL, NOW, YOU WERE ASKING ABOUT TICKETS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grey Cup tickets? They're as easy to get as a taxi cab in this city—and that's a simple matter.

British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union put 1,300 on public sale Thursday morning for the Saturday clash between Ottawa Rough Riders and Edmonton Eskimos, and they went begging.

Early Thursday night general manager Herb Capozzi of the Lions said they had "about 1,000 tickets left."

"They aren't good ones—they're in the front row, out in the open," he added.

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

VANCOUVER—There are three excellent reasons why Edmonton should win the Grey Cup at Empire Stadium Saturday afternoon.

First, and foremost is Jackie Parker, the shuffle-gaited Mississippi Master who stopped by in Vancouver Thursday afternoon to collect for the third time the trophy and loot that goes with being voted Canada's outstanding football player.

Also, despite some optimistic predictions by the weatherman, there is a good chance that the going will be gooe. This is all part of the game for the Eskimos, who are accustomed to sloppy conditions. But the Rough Riders haven't played on a wet field all season and the thought of rain gives them the jitters.

And just to make things look brighter for the Eskies, this corner is going against the experts and picking the Riders.

The Pirates made me look good by winning the World Series, but in the last two Grey Cup clashes I climbed out on a limb for Hamilton. Both times the Blue Bombers sawed off the limb and carried Earl Grey's chunk of silverware back to Winnipeg, which suggests that Edmonton should be a cinch in this one.

Everybody, that is, almost everybody, says the Eskies will win and along Grey Cup Row this morning they were calling them one-touchdown favorites. This is mostly because of Parker, who is the closest thing to a complete quarterback you'll find running loose in Canadian stadiums. Take away Jackie and they'd call it a toss-up.

And the Eskimos can be expected to send Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong, a pair of fullbacks who are built like tackles, blocking around the ends—the only spots where the Ottawa line sacrifices weight for speed. It figures that the Riders ends might not be able to cope with this kind of blocking.

Mountain-Types Deserve Respect

Yep, most of the guys who should know say it'll be the Eskies. But because I have a lot of respect for mountains and dynamite, I'm going for a ride with the Riders.

The mountains, if you hadn't guessed, are those gridiron Goliaths who toll in the middle of the Ottawa line.

Fellows like "Emperor" Tom Jones, whose altitude is six-five and whose gross tonnage is 275 pounds, and Angelo Mosca, only one inch closer to earth and but five pounds lighter, give Ottawa something like a 25-pound per man pull in weight in collisions along the line of scrimmage.

Before the game ends, most of Edmonton's linemen will have pushed around considerably more meat than have their rivals. And since somebody's gotta get tired, it's a good bet the Eskies will be the first to get muscle-weary.

And then there's Ottawa's Ron Stewart, a halfback who is really a mountain compressed into a 175-pound capsule of pigskin dynamite. The five-seven hunk of greatness, who established a new all-Canadian rushing record of 287 yards against Montreal last Oct. 11, has to be seen to be appreciated.

A boisterous individual filled with a love of life and football, Ron buys shirts with 17-inch collars. He's built like a husky lumberjack in the vicinity of chest and shoulders, tapers in to a waist of chorus-girl proportions, and scampers about on a pair of amazingly fast and muscular legs.

He's just the most exciting halfback in the country. Fullback Dave Thelen figures to keep the Eskimos honest with his bone-crushing runs up the middle and pass receivers like Bobby Simpson should give them the jitters. But Stewart could wreck them with his sweeps around the ends.

Versatility Trademark of Riders

The Riders are a versatile club, able to move the ball in the air or along the ground, and they are made up of almost equal parts of experience, balance and desire. They may have a bit too much for the western champions to handle.

If they haven't had time to adjust their defence to handle the Edmonton offensive system—a style they have not faced in their own league—the Riders are sunk. But coach Frank Clair isn't called "The Professor" just for kicks. I think his boys will be ready.

Clair is noted as a man of few words. He doesn't pass out praise without due consideration.

Asked about Thelen, Frank adjusted his spectacles, pondered a moment and replied: "He's good."

Assistant coach Bill Smyth didn't take as much time to say of Stewart: "He's great."

Don't be surprised if Edmonton jumps out in front. But somebody's going to get tired and the Riders have consistently played their best football in the second half.

They have been down as many as 17 points in league games this season and come on to win. They trailed Toronto by 20 points with 20 minutes to play in last Sunday's Big Four final and still squeezed home in front.

Saturday's argument for the Grey Cup is shaping up as a high-scoring battle and it says here that Ottawa will pull out a triumph in the second half—by one touchdown.

Eskimos Relax As Game Nears

Thursday was an afternoon for just sitting and relaxing for most of the Edmonton Eskimos.

LAST FLING KWONG SAYS

Edmonton Eskimo fullback Normie Kwong Thursday suggested he will retire from professional football after Saturday's Grey Cup final against Ottawa Rough Riders in Vancouver.

"I'm moving to Vancouver after the season, and that'll be the end of football. It's the best way to go, after a Grey Cup and especially after winning the championship," he said.

It's not the first time the 10-year Calgary-born veteran with the Eskies has announced he is retiring, but this time he appeared more determined. Kwong opened a car wash business in Vancouver after getting married this year.

About half the team took advantage of an invitation to try some salmon fishing and the others, except coach Eagle Keys and quarterback Jackie Parker, stayed at their hotel watching television.

And, true to their trade, they watched football. First, it was a U.S. college game right after their morning workout and then an American Football League game between New York Titans and Dallas Texans.

Parker and Keys were at Vancouver attending an awards dinner at which Parker was honored as Canada's outstanding football player for the third time.

The team went through its usual stiff, wet drill during the morning, a procedure it went through again this morning before taking an early afternoon plane to Vancouver, where it will meet Ottawa Rough Riders for the Canadian championship and the Grey Cup Saturday.

TEAMWORK

Carrying football is regular duty of quarterbacks Russ Jackson (left) and Ron Lancaster (right), but Ottawa players find another carrying job more interesting. The husky players

PLAYERS' THUMBNAIL SKETCHES

Years of Experience In Eskimo Backfield

Ottawa Rough Riders and Edmonton Eskimos average out to about 25½ years, but there is a difference. The Riders have a youthful backfield working behind a veteran line while the Eskimos have a more veteran backfield and a younger line.

With seven backs either 23 or 22 years old, Riders have a big edge in backfield youth over the Eskimos, who have such veterans as 31-year-old Rolfe Miles, 29-year-old Johnny Bright, 28-year-old Normie Kwong and 28-year-old Jackie Parker.

By comparison, Ottawa quarterbacks Ron Lancaster and Russ Jackson, are 22 and 23 respectively. Halfback Joe Kelly and fullback Dave Thelen are 23 and halfback Ron Stewart is 25. In the line, however, the Eskies average almost two years per man less than the Riders.

The facts and figures are pieces of information that may be gleaned from the thumbnail sketches of players on the teams who Saturday play off for the Grey Cup.

Mud Nothing New To Eskimo Crew

Rain Irks Ottawa Coach; Edmonton Still Favored

By DOUG PEDEN, Times Sports Editor

VANCOUVER—Grown men, especially those who make a living in the manly mayhem of football, aren't expected to be terrified by a little thing like rain, but you'd never guess as much by talking to the brass around the Ottawa camp.

Coach Frank Clair and assistant coach Bill Smyth, preparing their Rough Riders for Saturday's Grey Cup clash with Edmonton Eskimos, admit they are scared stiff of the wet stuff they have been watching for the past three days.

Accordingly, they are spending anxious hours scanning weather reports and squinting sadly at the murky and usually dripping Vancouver skies.

There's an obvious reason why each would gladly part with a month's pay for assurance of dry turf and clear skies for the gridiron classic at Empire Stadium.

You Don't Know Vancouver, Frank!

"Won't this weather ever let up?" Clair muttered Thursday. "I don't know what kind of a team I have in the rain. We're hoping for a break in the weather before Saturday."

The long-range forecast suggests that the tall, scholarly man who has been plotting the Riders for five years may get his wish. The forecast suggests that Saturday may arrive during a break between two storms, which is still cutting it too fine to suit the Ottawa pilot.

Clair, who wants privacy for his charges whenever possible, again sent his club through a workout at University of British Columbia Stadium.

Two medical cases are worrying the Ottawa brass.

Recovering from a sore throat is veteran Bobby Simpson, the brilliant pass-catching end who pulled the ancient "sleeper" play out of mothballs in last Sunday's Big Four final against Toronto.

Kaye Vaughan, twice named the best lineman in Canada and voted second best this year, missed Thursday's workout. He was chased into bed with a suspicion that he may be suffering from flu.

Eskies Favored

Around Vancouver today the lads with betting money were still quoting Edmonton as six or seven-point favorite and the odds could climb a bit higher now that the first of more than 1,500 Edmonton fans are stomping around town and offering to back their boys.

The guessing experts are predicting that both clubs will do quite a bit of scoring although they rate as two of the best defensive squads in the country.

There are a pair of good reasons for this line of thinking. In a pre-season game at Hamilton, Eskimos managed a 28-7 victory when the Riders missed a field-goal attempt in the final minute. And, not having clashed in league play, they are not familiar with each other's attack.

The winner obviously could be the club that comes out of secret sessions with the best solution to defensive problems.

A few believe that Edmonton won't be able to run against Ottawa's massive line, but Smyth believes the Eskies will run around most of the bigness.

"Edmonton gives the most trouble on the outside and we are not very big on the ends," said Smyth, who has been with the Riders for six years.

"Our biggest problem is that we don't have a defensive setup for a team like Edmonton. We are used to teams that really throw that ball and we pick our players for that type of game. It's going to be an entirely new look for our sharks! The largest thing I've ever caught before was not bigger than six inches."

All of the players were enthusiastic about the trip. More important they enjoyed the break in their daily-training routine.

The grise were saved for those who caught them by the hotel and were to be served up any style the gridiron fishermen wanted.

Nietupski's two dogfish were quietly disposed of by the hotel staff.

Overtime Rules Set For Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Overtime will be played until a winner is decided if Saturday's Ottawa-Edmonton Grey Cup final is tied after the regulation 60 minutes, football commissioner Sydney Halter, of Winnipeg, said Thursday.

If fog rolls in, the game will be postponed until Sunday "or any subsequent day" until conditions are favorable," he added.

The subject was brought up after three days of intermittent rain. The long-range forecast is for continued unsettled weather and possibly rain Saturday and the forecast said fog "is extremely unlikely."

If overtime is needed, the Rough Riders and Eskimos would have a 10-minute rest period after regulation time. Then they would play two 10-minute halves until the issue was decided, the teams changing ends after each 10 minutes with no rest period.

Fines Come Wholesale

DETROIT (AP)—Each player on Detroit Lions and Chicago Bears has been fined for a free-for-all battle near the end of their National Football League game Sunday, it was reported here by Lions president Edwin J. Anderson.

Big Series Confronts Cats

This is the big weekend as far as George Agar is concerned. He only hopes that his Victoria Cougars get the message.

And he's not referring to the Grey Cup football game. Currently in fifth place in the Western Hockey League, the Cougars could be hovering near the upper echelon if things work out right in a home-and-home series with Vancouver Canucks this weekend.

The Cats travel to Vancouver tonight and then tackle the Canucks in a return match at Memorial Arena Saturday night at 8:30 p.m.

Says Agar: "This could be one of our biggest weekends as far as meaning something, and we'll do all right as long as the boys keep skating. When they're skating they can beat any team in the league. Once they stop skating, they've had it."

He indicated that both Wayne North and Billy Saunders, who have been taking treatment all week for injuries, will be in strip for tonight's game. Both have been off skates all week.

CHIP SHOTS: Agar stressed that the Cougars possess a balanced offence, and he isn't kidding. A total of eight players are bunched within three points. Don Wilson, Doug Anderson, Jim Moro and Gerry Goyer have 11, Bill Johansen and George Ford have 10 and Jim Hay has nine. Moro and Fizzell lead in goals, with seven apiece. Meanwhile, Seattle Totems announced that Gordy Tansley, young defenceman who has been out of action with a broken forearm, will return to their lineup for Saturday's clash with Portland Buccaneers. Tansley had his cast removed Wednesday. The club also announced the signing of a pair of rookies who will report to the club next year. They are Doug Messier, who filled in for two games against Edmonton last week, and Andre Despard, a centre with Omaha of the International League.

Barry Favored For Aggregate

VANCOUVER—With the wind at his back, unbeaten Barry Naimark could take grand aggregate honors today in the $10,000 Totem bonspiel here.

As the primary events in the week-long bonspiel went into the fourth late Thursday, Naimark came from under a 5-4 deficit and defeated Bill Allan of Olds, Alta., 8-6, in the Totem. Allan was previously undefeated.

Only other contender for the aggregate was Vancouver's Fred Tinning, with eight wins and two games to play.

IN PRIMARIES
Left in primary competition after Thursday's play were Naimark, Jack MacAllister, Vancouver; Bill Price and Lionel Wood of Edmonton; Glen Harper of Duncan; Tinning and the Harold Hunter rink of Regina.

Tony Gutoski of Victoria, a former B.C. champion, lost Thursday to Naimark and his three Prairie curlers. Gutoski came back in the last draw of the tertiary Fraser event to defeat Vancouver's Hoyle Esche, 7-5.

Only Gutoski and Harper were left from the nine rinks entered from Vancouver Island.

Harper moved on in the Evergreen event, the No. 2 primary, with victories over Stan Szabo of Mission City and Aubrey Neff of Vancouver.

ELIMINATED
Gordie Moore of Victoria was eliminated through losses to Arden Brown of Vancouver and Dave Dunn of Nanaimo. Elmer Hoffman of Victoria lost his last chance Thursday when he took a 10-4 thumping from Lyle Reichert of New Westminster. Also sidelined were Jack Molr and Bob Siddle of Victoria, Harry Spottiswood of Port Alberni, Dunn and Brock Wilson of Nanaimo.

Heber Seller of Victoria was eliminated from the two-event veterans' bonspiel.

"Certainly I only shot my limit! No law against winning the others in a crap game is there!"

Upstart Club Riding on Top

Which is the biggest surprise of the National Hockey League—the upstart Detroit Red Wings or the troubled Montreal Canadiens?

The Red Wings proved again Thursday night that they are at least the most enterprising. Packed with players most observers had figured would keep them chained close to the bottom of the league, they humbled the mighty Canadiens, 3-1, and took a one-point lead in the standings.

Chicago Black Hawks, meanwhile, lifted themselves into second place with a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs at Chicago. Toronto and Montreal now are tied for third place, two points behind Detroit.

In the other NHL game,

TOP SCORERS with Cougars, wingers Jim Moro (top) and Bert Fizzell (bottom) will be out to pad their totals when Victoria plays Vancouver Canucks in home-and-home Western Hockey League series this weekend. Each has seven goals to top club scorers. Cats play in Vancouver tonight and in Memorial Arena Saturday, starting at 8:30 p.m.

Early approach of darkness in the winter months has forced officials of the Victoria and District Football League to change starting times of all games. Games now will commence at 2 p.m. instead of 2:30.

The change takes effect with Saturday's game between Saanich Thistles and Canadian Scottish at Royal Athletic Park.

Currently leading the league by one point, Thistles need a win to stay ahead of second-place Kickers and Evcoes.

Sunday, Evcoes travel to Ladysmith, Gorge meets Nanaimo at Heywood Avenue Park, Wests go against Kickers at Central, and Esquimalt meets Brodies at Reynolds.

PRO GOLFERS UNDER FIRE OVER POLICY

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The United States Professional Golfers' Association must abandon its white-only membership policy, says state attorney-general Stanley Mosk, or he will force it out of business in California.

Mosk said he has advised all publicly supported golf courses in California that they may not extend any special privileges or benefit to the PGA or its members.

The national PGA convention voted 64 to 17 in Phoenix, Ariz., last week against deleting from its constitution the restrictive clause which has barred racial minority players from full membership.

It's Been a Time Since Either Won

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Veteran Freddie Haas and young Jon Gustin came in late with six-under-par 66s and tied for the lead in the opening round of the Mobile Open golf tournament Thursday.

The 44-year-old Haas, who plays only infrequently on the pro circuit, hasn't won a tournament in almost seven years. Gustin, who took to the pro circuit in August of 1959, has never won one.

Arnold Palmer, the leading money winner of the year, was tied with six others, two strokes behind the leaders.

'STOP SIGNS FOR HANGING YOUR HAT ON' SAYS DRIVER

DUNCAN—Kare Iversen, Honeymoon Bay, who told the police he thought stop signs were "something for people to hang their hats on," was fined $25 in police court here.

He pleaded guilty to failing to stop before entering a marked crosswalk on Trunk Road.

Cpl. Gordon Irvine, RCMP, said Iversen's other comment to police was that "there was no one about at the time."

Iversen also had to pay $5 costs.

V.I. BRIEFS

Cheer Drive 'In Business'

DUNCAN — Cowichan Christmas Cheer Committee has opened its annual campaign to raise funds and to collect food, toys and staple goods for the district's needy families.

Last year the committee raised over $3,000 and distributed 240 Christmas hampers.

Committee officials report the need this year is greater than last year. They are again appealing for cash donations and for toys, new and old, and other goods suitable for placing in hampers.

All broken and damaged toys will be repaired for the committee by Boy Scouts.

Donations, of either cash or goods for hampers, may be left at the Times office, 30 Kenneth Street. Financial contributions may also be mailed to committee treasurer, George Sinden, Box 928, Duncan.

Mrs. Dennis Hogan was elected chairman of the committee. Co-chairman is Mrs. O. R. Adair. Other officers are: Miss Louise Underwood, secretary; Mr. Sinden, treasurer; Miss M. Irwin, publicity; Clarence Evans, delivery chairman.

DUNCAN—The provincial cabinet has rescheduled a previously arranged meeting with a delegation from the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

The cabinet was to have met with the chamber delegation at 2 p.m. Dec. 1, but has now set the meeting date back to Dec. 6 and the time ahead to 8:30 a.m.

Delegation from the chamber, which will include representatives of the lumber and trucking industry, the IWA, hospital board and Lake Cowichan village commission, will present a brief urging rebuilding of several miles of Lake Cowichan Road.

DUNCAN — Raymond J. Harper, 20, Duncan, was fined $10 in police court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to being in possession of beer while under the age of 21 years.

CHEMAINUS—A fight on a downtown Chemainus street resulted in fines for two local youths in police court this week.

Rudolph Ordano, 21, and Darryl Cave, 19, charged with creating a disturbance by fighting, were each fined $40 and costs by Magistrate W. H. Bryant.

DUNCAN — Minimum fine of $10 was imposed on Sodhi Ram Jaswal, Nanaimo, in Duncan court after he admitted operating a motor-vehicle Nov. 17 with a load projecting six feet without a red lamp visible to the rear.

DUNCAN — Funeral services will be held at Hirst
Funeral Chapel in Duncan Saturday at 10 a.m. for Jan Poelman, 66, who died in King's Daughters' Hospital on Monday.

Born at Berger, Holland, he emigrated to Canada in 1958, returning to Holland the following year. In March of this year he came to Cobble Hill, where he resided up to the time of his death.

Predeceased by his wife and one son, he is survived by five sons, Jannes, of Shawnigan Lake; Jan, of Duncan, and Jans, Geert and Tinus, all of Holland; five daughters in Holland, 13 grandchildren, a brother and two sisters.

PORT ALBERNI—Aldermen William Goddard, Jack
Perry and Robert Dalton have filed nomination papers for re-election to city council next month.

A fourth candidate will be George McKnight, who was defeated in previous bids for election to council.

COMOX—About 70 per cent of the $20,000 target of the United Good Neighbor Fund has been collected or pledged to date.

Of $14,100 collected, RCAF personnel here through payroll deductions contributed $3,210.

NANAIMO—More than 200 deer hides have been collected this season by the Kiwanis Club here.

The club each year sells down donated deer hides and sells them to a New Westminster firm. Proceeds go to club community projects.

7,200 VOLTS TOO MUCH FOR GUMBOOTS

DUNCAN — A coroner's jury Thursday returned a verdict of accidental death in the electrocution Wednesday of volunteer fireman Alan Campbell, 23-year-old bank teller.

Even rubber boots would not have saved his life, according to a provincial electrical inspector.

Campbell was electrocuted when he responded with other members of the Duncan fire department to an alarm caused by a chimney fire in Chinatown.

They were erecting a 45-foot aluminum ladder against the building when it contacted a 7,200-volt power line.

Campbell was not wearing rubber boots at the time an dthe street was wet.

Rubber boots offer protection only up to 2,300 volts, the electrical inspector said.

Today at noon the temperature was 43 degrees at Gonzales weather observatory.

MONTE ROBERTS

Thoughts while thinking...

I have been thinking for a long time about the small car parking space at the meter on Pandora beside the city hall... the one with the sign reading "Small Car Only"... at first I was thinking, how small is a small car?... but now I am thinking, why shouldn't a small car parking meter have a smaller parking fee than a large car meter?... the fact I have a small car doesn't influence my thinking... much...

I have been thinking (apropos above) shouldn't we have special parking spaces for small minds, too?...

I have been thinking about the small schmooze at the Memorial Arena... and I have been thinking, the city council has made a large error about this small schmooze... Because all the good citizens who are not in the know are convinced it is a very large schmooze... so I have been thinking, why not let all of the good citizens know for sure how large or small this schmooze is?...

I have been thinking, will the next Korea-type small war start in the Congo or Cuba?... and if so, will we have a choice as to a small war or a big war?...

I have been thinking, the unemployment problem is only a very small problem, except for those who are unemployed...

I have been thinking about whether or not the moon is made of green cheese... and I have come to the conclusion, when man first reaches the moon, he will find it made of cheese not green at all... because I have been thinking, the moon has been there long enough to be thoroughly aged...

I have been thinking about the home-bound five o'clock motorists who weave in and out of traffic... and what they do with the five seconds they save with their own and other lives at stake...

I have been thinking of small things and big things, but mostly I have been thinking of giving up thinking... because I must think of my blood pressure.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday in the Provincial Museum at 7 p.m.

Monthly meeting of Victoria Amateur Movie Club will be held at Norway House, 1110 Hillside Avenue, next Monday at 8 p.m. The program will include a workshop demonstration of splicing films, the showing of a holiday film by Len Thomas and other members' films.

George F. James, an Indian, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to four months indefinite and two months indefinite to the young offender's unit at Oakalla for stealing $30 from Lum Loon of Victoria.

Pleading guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor, James Lorne Etter, 18, of 635 Beaver Lake Road, was fined $20 in city police court today.

Nell Stanley, RCN, was fined $50 and bound over to keep the peace for six months after pleading guilty in city police court today to obtaining lodgings by fraud. He owed a downtown hotel two weeks' rent.

City council Thursday discussed in camera two offers by Vancouver firms to build a new City Hall. Mayor Percy Scurrell said today.

Aldermen decided to communicate their decision to Marwell Construction Ltd. and Dominion Construction Ltd., but the result will not be announced until the firms are notified.

An irate mother today said more supervision should be provided in Central Junior High School locker rooms to prevent vandalism.

Mrs. R. J. Turnbull, 1756 Coronation, said her son Stuart Thursday found his running shoes burned, his gym shorts ripped and four strange gym shorts in his locker.

Evidently the combination lock had been picked, she said. "People can't afford to buy gym shorts and running shoes every month," she said. "We pay $1 each year to provide security for students' belongings and I think this sort of thing shouldn't be allowed to happen."

Five months ago D. E. McIntyre, 2440 Foul Bay, was given a checkup slip by a city policeman who noticed some little thing amiss on his ancient car and gave the man 48 hours to have it fixed.

Paris were somewhat hard to come by. Thursday he called police to say the spares had finally arrived and the car was ready for the road again.

He thanked police for the courtesy he was shown.

Mrs. R. Jahraus was winner of the McGugan trophy at the annual impromptu speech contest held recently by the Dale Carnegie Alumni group.

The trophy was presented by Col. Donald McGugan.

The 11th Victoria Girl Guide company of the Thunderbird District will hold a tea and bazaar in rooms four and five of the Memorial Hall on Saturday between 24 p.m. The Rockland Street entrance will be used.

Provincial and civic officials have been invited to attend a special luncheon of the B.C. Maritime Museum directors in HMCS Naden wardroom next Wednesday.

The luncheon follows the annual meeting of the board of directors.

Stewart Walton of the Sun Life Insurance Co. of Canada says this company has no connection whatever with the Sun Insurance Co. mentioned in a case before the B.C. Appeal Court this week.

The court ruled that the Sun Insurance Co. did not have to pay $12,000 to a fish packing firm for the total loss of 400 tons of raw herring at sea.

"We do not insure fish, only human life," Mr. Walton said.

Reeve George Chatterton and the Saanich municipal candidates in the forthcoming civic elections will speak at a meeting in the CCF Hall, Richmond Road, on Dec. 6 at 8 p.m.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, a small female dog named Scamp is raising three kittens—two unnamed black imps and a ginger cat born of an earlier litter:

NO INQUIRY ON FINANCES

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today indicated there will be no royal commission on B.C. school financing.

He was commenting on a request for such an inquiry by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Peterson presided at a cabinet meeting Thursday which heard chamber officers present their annual brief.

Start on Villa Ordered As Job-Maker

Because of the need for winter employment, construction of the new Kiwanis Villa to house 52 single persons is starting now instead of next spring.

A few men are already working on the Cedar Hill Road site adjacent to Kiwanis Village, which houses 87 senior citizens, mostly married couples.

"By the New Year we expect to have 50 or 60 men on the job," a Kiwanis official said today. "This will help alleviate unemployment in the construction industry this winter."

MAYOR TO DIG

First sod on the Kiwanis Villa site will be turned by Mayor Percy Scurrell next Tuesday at 1:45 p.m.

The following Thursday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. the Kiwanis will conduct a one-hour "blitz" to raise funds for the $233,000 villa project.

The villa will provide 52 bedrooms, two sun lounges, boiler room and electrical storage rooms.

Construction is being done by the M. P. Paine Co. of Victoria.

KITTENS THRIVE ON CANINE MOTHERHOOD

Scamp, the 'Mother Cat' Wants Family—Anybody's

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Foster mother to four families of kittens is Scamp, a golden-haired spaniel-cum-Yorkshire terrier who lives in a rambling house at 5055 Santa Clara Avenue, Royal Oak.

She feeds them, cuddles them, nuzzles them and fusses around them day and night.

"In fact she takes over the full duties of a mother cat," says Scamp's owner, Mrs. H. J. Reed.

Perhaps because she has had no puppies of her own, three-year-old Scamp takes possession whenever Blackie, her feline playmate, has a fresh litter. And Blackie is well content to let her do all the work.

"Blackie is not a good mother," Mrs. Reed explained. "She obviously doesn't want the kittens and leaves them to die. But Scamp noses them out and adopts them."

The kittens seem to thrive on canine motherhood. They look in the pink of condition as they cuddle up to their foster mother, or romp with her about the house and garden.

HER FOURTH

Scamp's present charges—her fourth cat family in two years—are two tiny black kittens and a ginger kitten named

Ginger. "No, they don't bark," laughed Mrs. Reed, "but they do some of the things dogs do. They eat up Scamp's dog biscuits, play with her bones and dash around the house like puppies."

"They also perform their daily ablutions after the fashion of dogs. It is all very extraordinary."

When Scamp goes for a walk she is followed not only by the three kittens but by two full-grown cats she has raised.

One odd thing—Scamp usually adopts kittens born in July or August. Mrs. Reed thinks this may be because she only has mother's milk during these months.

"Adoption of kittens by dogs is unusual but it does happen from time to time," says Dr. R. E. Cranston, Victoria veterinary surgeon. "The dog has obviously been brought up with cats and, having no puppies of her own, her mother instinct leads her to kittens."

AGING NIGHT FERRIES SOLD —CPR MAKES IT OFFICIAL

Sale of the aging CPR night steamers Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth to Greek interests was "announced" late Thursday by a CPR spokesman in Vancouver, after it was reported in The Times that the Greek captain and crew had arrived to take over the ships.

Sale of the ships and their Mediterranean destination was first reported Nov. 15, at which time CPR officials refused to comment.

The two Princesses will be docked for a bottom scrape by VMD before leaving next week for Piraeus.

Edwards Welding Ltd. is completing a contract to strengthen sections of the decking where corrosion had set in, and installing iron plating over the lower portholes, in preparation for the long voyage to the Mediterranean.

'INSTANT ICE' BANGS UP CARS

"Instant icing" conditions which have plagued the Thetis Lake overpass on the Trans-Canada Highway caused five accidents in a 90-minute period this morning.

None of them was serious. All happened between 7:30 and 9 a.m. by cars slipping out of control on a thin skin of ice forming very rapidly.

A Provincial Works Department official on the scene this morning said the overpass, part of the cloverleaf connecting with the Old Island Highway, was ice-free at 7 a.m.

By 7:30 the ice had formed.

The official said the ice results from cold wind funneling under the overpass, cooling it from the inside up to the surface, where the morning dew turns to ice almost instantly.

The only remedy is spreading salt, which was done this morning.

The overpass is checked daily, and "slippery when wet" signs are posted.

SHARE WAGES?

'Aldermen By Proxy' Protested

They're off and running.

Victoria's dull preliminaries to the Dec. 8 election of four aldermen lived up today as two candidates traded punches over a personal issue.

Victor Williams, who lost a bid for council last year, attacked Ald. Arthur Dowell's nomination as a move to "have aldermen by proxy."

He noted that Ald. Dowell had declared he would take an extended trip to Europe next year and argued that this should have prevented him from standing for re-election.

"The public knows what my intentions are. I haven't hidden anything and everyone knows the condition under which I'm offering to serve again," replied Ald. Dowell.

"It's for the public to decide whether they want me, not Mr. Williams."

'FREEZE OUT'

Mr. Williams said statements that sitting aldermen had agreed to carry an extra load while Ald. Dowell is away, if he is elected, "indicate that they're trying to freeze out any opposition getting on council."

"How are they going to share his vote when a controversial question, like the arena commission or off-street parking, comes up during his absence?" he asked.

"Are they going to share his aldermanic wages too?"

FIVE MONTHS

Mr. Williams said it is "wrong for a candidate to stand when he is going to be away for five or six months which constitutes 25 per cent of the term of office he's running for. I can't agree with aldermen by proxy."

Christmas Day falls on a Sunday, so Monday counts as a holiday in its place, and Tuesday counts for Boxing Day.

Downtown stores will be closed Tuesday, Dec. 27.

But all the banks must open because they are governed by the federal Bank Act, which prevents them closing more than three consecutive days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

MUST OPEN

A circular to the banks says they must open despite public or civic holidays.

The bankers will get off on Monday, Jan. 2, however, as credit for New Year's Day, also a Sunday.

Department stores will start their Christmas night shopping Dec. 19, remaining open to 9 every night until Dec. 23. Christmas Eve store hours will be 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The provincial cabinet on Thursday approved the holiday dates under the Interpretation Act; it previously approved them under the Civil Service Act.

MAY LOSE OUT

Federal employees will get Monday, Dec. 26, off, but they may lose out on the 27th.

State Secretary Noel Dorion said in Ottawa that there is no federal legislation which allows the "extra" holiday on Dec. 27.

FAST FERRY TO BE BUSY FOR GREY CUP

B.C. government ferries will be taking many busloads of enthusiasts to the Grey Cup final in Vancouver Saturday, starting at 7 a.m. from Swartz Bay.

"We expect to be able to handle all the cars and bus passengers who will be travelling," a spokesman said. "Many will be leaving early in time for the Grey Cup parade."

Arena Fight Buried By Confidence Vote

A vote of "complete confidence" in Memorial Arena commission was passed Thursday by city council.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, who made the motion seconded by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, explained that several aldermen had met privately with the commission regarding the resignation controversy "to get it settled once and for all."

The council's decision effectively buried the arena controversy. Earlier a showdown had been expected at the meeting on demands for a public inquiry into the situation but it never materialized because of unanimous support for the confidence motion.

Ald. Dowell said the commission had been and will be "very fair" to the six employees who resigned last month. He said the commission also felt it had been subjected "to unjustified criticism."

NO SWEEPER

Ald. Elmer McEwen smilingly preceded his remarks with: "I didn't bring my carpet sweeper. Maybe I should have."

He supported the confidence motion because "I believe the proper person has accepted the blame and he is going to move."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay said he supported the motion with qualifications that the commission carry out its agreement to be fair to the employees, ensure that arena manager Joe Dukowski is replaced as soon as possible and make monthly reports to council as it was supposed to under the bylaw.

DISRUPTION

Ald. Ramsay said there was a possibility that if the issue had been pressed further the taxpayers would suffer by total disruption of arena affairs resulting in financial losses.

He said this could mean that ratepayers would have to increase their present annual subsidy of some $40,000 to pay off the arena's debt.

Although not totally satisfied with the outcome, Ald. Ramsay said he felt it was the best course to follow under the circumstances. He pointed to arena commissioner Courtney Haddock's decision to withhold a threatened resignation as evidence that the problems would be resolved.

RESIGN?

There were hints during council's debate that the arena commission might resign en masse if the compromise was not adopted.

"Rather than be faced with the resignations of the commission, the manager and the experienced staff all at once, leading to chaos, I think we will have to put faith in the commission to carry out the things they outlined to us," said Ald. Ramsay.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said council had not received the monthly reports required from the commission for the past 10 years but this would be rectified in future.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Christmas Baking Not Done?
Try These Imported Goodies

By PENNY SAVER

Today I'd like to pass on a few suggestions for items to pack in Christmas food parcels. If you just haven't the time to make batches of fruit cake to send overseas or for your own use and still would like to have cakes with that home-made flavor you'll be interested in those being imported from Ireland.

Made in Dublin, they're full of fruit and nuts and are made with butter. They'll keep beautifully for they come in sealed, round cans. Cakes weigh in at 1½ pounds and sell for $1.79.

For those that prefer a light fruit cake there's an English one available at the same weight and price.

This one is made from the famous Dundee recipe and is generously topped with almonds. These, too, come in sealed cans.

How about some genuine Scottish shortbread? One firm that's been making it since 1797 is exporting cans of shortbread and these are now available in a downtown store. Cans sell at 89 cents and contain about 12½ ounces of this delicious delicacy.

Let's face it—preparing for Christmas giving and entertaining can prove quite a strain on any household budget! If you are looking for ways to cut corners—money wise—try some of the meat loaf mix that's already proved highly popular with dollar-careful women.

In the mix, there is everything you need, excepting meat of course, for a meat loaf for the hungriest family. Eggs, milk, tomato flakes, parsley and spices are some of the items in this money-saving mix.

Two pounds of hamburger mixed with two thirds of a cup of mix and same amount of water will make enough to feed a family six to eight. For variety, try using two pounds of canned salmon instead of the hamburger. It makes a delicious salmon loaf. Package containing 10 ounces of mix is priced at 31 cents.

Dehmke-Lockie Wedding
In First United Church

Mass of white chrysanthemums decorated First United Church last Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Wendy Elizabeth Lockie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lockie, 1016 Finlayson Street, and Gerald Dennis Dehmke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Browne of Vancouver, Rev. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a white silk organza gown over a pink taffeta underskirt. A pink chapel-length veil misted from a dainty pink coronet. The bouquet was of rapture rosebuds and carnations.

Miss Jennifer Browne and Miss Davena Browne, sisters of groom, were bridesmaids, in daffodil-yellow nylon net over taffeta dresses. They wore yellow floral headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of roses and carnations.

The mother of the bride chose a black velvet sheath and small black feather-trimmed hat for the occasion. Beige silk sheath and feather hat was choice of groom's mother.

Best man was Bruce Wilmot. A family dinner party followed the ceremony in the Monterey Restaurant. An heirloom crystal bowl of white and mauve chrysanthemums, centered the table. On side table the three-tier wedding cake was topped with white bells and tiny pale pink rosebuds.

Ronald Macaskill, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast. Here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Holroyd, Mrs. Robert Lockie, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Macaskill and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. James Park and Mr. and Mrs. Browne, all of Vancouver.

Equality Not Everyone's Cup of Tea

MONTREAL (CP) — Lady Ravensdale, one of the first women to sit in the British House of Lords, feels equality does not suit all of her sex.

"If a woman has a home and children, she has to equate whether they or a career come first," said the Baroness of Kedleston at a press conference here Tuesday.

"If she's a bad manager, she can mess up her home life in her efforts for equality."

"Others can manage very well. It seems to be up to the individual," said the baroness. She said she felt the great difficulty today's emancipated woman faces is the need to "get her values right."

Grey Cup Fashion Picture Says Warm Clothes a Must Saturday

Fashionwise, or otherwise, you're advised to bring along some rainwear for the Grey Cup final Saturday at Vancouver.

Statistics suggest the odds are 3½ to 2 that there will be rain in some quantity for the East-West football classic.

You won't go far wrong if you tuck in something snug and woolly, just in case, for on that same day a year ago, the maximum temperature was a chilly 29 degrees.

These are practical ideas based on past weather. For the fashion conscious, consider these tips:

It's a time that requires a choice of clothes that will respond to split-second timing.

For the game, slacks are out. The girls should really go all

SUGGEST FUR HAT

A costume that can go from the game to a gay get-together; a figure-flattering knitted dress with sparkling costume jewelry among accessories, perhaps a fur hat; over this, a new 36-inch car coat in soft-touch suede of luscious color.

Later on, when things really get swinging, you'll need your most feminine after-five cocktail dress—one of the new beaded sheaths would brighten up any Grey Cup party."

Casual or dressy casual is recommended for the men.

The casual, for the man going directly to the game, would include sports shirt and slacks, bulky-knit sweater, carcoat and possibly a sports-car type cap.

The dressy casual, for the man taking in some function before the game, would include jacket, shirt and tie, slacks and a light topcoat.

WHITE HOUSE DEBUTANTE TEA FIRST SINCE THE TAFT REGIME

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower presented her two debutante nieces to society today in the first coming out party at the White House in 50 years. The first lady gave a debutante tea for her namesake, Mamie Doud Moore, 18, and her sister, Ellen, 19. They are the daughters of Mrs. Eisenhower's sister, Mrs. George Gordon Moore of Washington.

Not since 1910, when Helen H. Taft, daughter of President William Howard Taft, made her debut, has the White House been the scene of a coming out party. There have been other affairs, however, for debutantes already presented to society.

The 4 p.m. (EST) tea on the day after Thanksgiving is the first time two young ladies have made their debut together at the executive mansion.

A list of ambassadors' wives and the girls' classmates were invited to the party, which was held in the historic rooms of the first floor of the White House.

Blue-eyed Ellen Moore, who attends Mary Washington College at Fredericksburg, Va., waited a year to make her debut with her sister. Brown-haired, brown-eyed Mamie Moore attends Mt. Vernon Seminary in nearby Fairfax County, Va.

Their mother is one of Mrs. Eisenhower's "close" associates as well as her sister. She and the first lady have spent a good deal of time together during the Eisenhowers' White House years. Their father is a retired army colonel.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Walking Will Firm Legs, But Isn't a Leg-Reducer

Q.—"I do a lot of walking but I have big legs. Does walking slim the legs or make them larger? Do you have an exercise to slim the legs below the knees?"

A.—Walking will firm the legs but is not considered a leg-reducing exercise except as any exercise burns up calories and therefore contributes to general weight reduction. I do not think that walking will make your legs larger. Mountain climbing would, or if you walk up and down hills a lot this would increase the size of your calves.

Q.—"Since the birth of my fifth baby six months ago I have lost almost 30 pounds with little effort. Everyone says that I have caused to worry. I have a medium frame and weigh 140 pounds. My measurements are bust 38 inches, waist 27 and hips 37. Are they all right and how much more weight should I lose, and should I worry? I weighed 135 when I married and never lost weight like this after my other babies. In fact I always had a terrible time losing weight. What do you think?"

A.—Your weight is just about right. With a medium frame you should weigh about 135 or 136. Your measurements are also in good ratio. Usually a sudden loss of weight should be investigated with a physical examination. If you lost because of lack of appetite or if you continue losing, you should consult your doctor. It may be that you struggled so to lose weight after the arrival of your other children that it became second nature to you and did not seem so difficult this time.

Q.—"I am five feet 1 inch tall and weigh 126 pounds. I am 12 years old. I think I am fat and so does everyone else. I want to lose weight so my friends will not make remarks about how fat I am. My bust measures 34 inches, waist 32 and hips 34. What should I do? I want to lose weight so much!"

A.—You do need to lose from 20 to 25 pounds. It is a shame for these young, wonderful years to be spoiled to some extent by being too fat. Your bust and your hips are in good ratio. Your waist is too large but this will become smaller when you lose weight. Also, you will naturally slim down through the waistline as you grow older.

Eat a well-balanced diet but eliminate second helpings. Substitute fresh fruit for dessert and forget candy bars and soda fountain mixtures for a while. If this doesn't do the trick, see your family physician. If you or any of my readers would like to have my leaflet, "Popularity," which was written especially for teen-agers, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 38. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

MRS. JONES' POTATO DOUGHNUTS

One and a half cups white sugar, 3 eggs, 2 cups well-mashed potatoes, 1 cup sweet milk, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 5 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg (optional).

Sift dry ingredients together. Beat mashed potatoes, add melted butter, beaten eggs and milk. Add the sifted dry ingredients to the beaten potato mixture. Dough should be soft yet firm enough to handle. Divide dough into four parts. Roll out one part at a time to three-quarter inch thickness. Cut with doughnut cutter and drop into deep hot fat, 365 degrees Fahrenheit. Fry until golden brown on each side. Drain on absorbent paper. Shake in paper bag containing a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. (Fry only a few doughnuts at a time, then they'll be tender and light—not soggy with cooking fat). Makes about four dozen.

Afternoon Branch, Christ Church Cathedral Woman's Auxiliary, Memorial Hall, Monday, at 2.30 p.m. United thank-offering to be taken.

Trio of Attendants at Wedding

Rev. A. I. Avery conducted the wedding ceremony last Saturday in St. Aidan's United Church that united Miss Lorraine Gail Crookford and Carl William Noel. Tall white bridesmaids in white dresses and white shoes, and white tulle and rosebuds encircled the bottom of a three-tiered wedding cake made by the groom's mother, which centred the bride's table. Silver candelabra flanked the cake. Jack Miller, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast.

Mrs. Crookford chose a teal blue ensemble with black and white accessories and a white carnation corsage for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Noel wore a beige brocade sheath with copper accessories and a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. Before leaving for a honeymoon trip in the United States, the bride changed to a royal blue Blin and Blin sheath dress topped with a grey coat. Blue and black accessories and a pink carnation corsage completed the going away outfit.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Crookford, 49 Knollwood Road, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Noel, 4301 Cedar Hill Road. His best man was Murray Noel and the ushers were Don Fouracre and Don McLean.

UNCLE GIVES TOAST. The Old England Inn was the scene of the reception. White tulle and rosebuds encircled the bottom of a three-tiered wedding cake made by the groom's mother, which centred the bride's table. Silver candelabra flanked the cake. Jack Miller, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Patricia Ross, Donald Orr

A recent double-ring ceremony in St. Aidan's United Church united in marriage Miss Patricia Ann Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, and Allan Donald Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Orr. Baskets of white lilies flanked the altar. Miss M. Vaughan played the organ and soloist, Stanley Martin sang "The Lord's Prayer." Rev. A. I. Avery officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white satin brocade with softly-scooped neckline and full skirt slightly on train. Bodice featured short puffed sleeves. Her fully-gathered veil was held with a tiara of pearls and rhinestones. Pale pink rosebuds and white heather were in her bouquet.

There were three bridal attendants. Misses Wendy Ross, Ella Jean Valde and Frances Quincey. All wore identical waltz-length gowns with turquoise satin brocade bodices and full white organza skirts. White carnations and ribbons were arranged on turquoise bands for their headpieces, and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations and heather.

Colin Creighton was best man and Jeremy Winters, Hugh Creighton and Peter Bousfield acted as ushers.

RECEPTION. During the reception which followed in Uplands Golf Club, the bride's father sang "If I Could Tell You" and "Glocamorra." Head table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake trimmed with pink rosebuds and heather and tall white candles in silver holders.

Proposing the bridal toast was M. Lamont.

Several guests came from out of town for the wedding. They were Mr. and Mrs. L. Freeman of Haney, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Alger of North Vancouver, Mrs. W. Borgeson, San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. B. Ross of Nanaimo and Mrs. C. J. Searson and Lynne of Vancouver.

For a honeymoon trip, the bride donned a green sheath dress and feathered hat with beige coat and tapestry bag. The young couple will make their home at 158 Robertson Street.

USC SEEKS $240,000 FOR NEEDY TOTS

They Wait Three Hours For Powdered Milk Cup

By TONY DICKASON
The brown eyes of the children watch you. They are big, hopeful and reproachful. These are the eyes of the children of India. They ask why they are not included in life.

Not all of India's 30,000,000 children need help; just some, but a tremendously high percentage.

This year the Unitarian Service Committee is concentrating its campaign on behalf of the "some."

This year, for the eighth year, the Victoria Times is supporting the director of the USC, Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, in her international campaign on behalf of the world's underprivileged.

TRAGIC STORY
The doctor, who needs $240,000 (payable 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa), wants to concentrate this year on India's children.

She is Canada's primary ambassador for children. Thursday night in the Ingham Hotel she told a capacity audience about the children who are helped by USC.

It was a story of tragedy, suffering, yet of hope. "Such is the need," she said, "that one cup of Canadian milk (made from milk powder) is worth waiting one hour, two hours, three hours."

In India there are people who eat only every second day.

Dr. Hirschmanova said she had seen children two years old, weighing only about six pounds, fed on a flour and water diet.

"No wonder they drop dead between 20 and 30."

Thousands of children roam the streets, she said, underfed, desperate, living in culverts, huts made of straw, or on the streets themselves.

"People and children in Delhi and Madras lack everything, even fresh water."

The USC is endeavoring to look after these children.

The child says only "daddy, daddy."

DOLLS FOR KOREA
Work has been going on 15 years, backed for more than half this time by the annual pre-Christmas campaign on behalf of the organization by the Victoria Times.

Close to $80,000 has been raised by such means from Greater Victoria citizens who have given in the cause of international charity.

Nickels, dimes and dollars are needed again.

All money contributed will be listed by the Times. It can be brought in as a cash gift or mailed to either the downtown office, 1215 Broad, or to the main office at 2631 Douglas.

Contributions are income tax deductible.

Co-hosts at the meeting were Stuart Keate, Times publisher, and Howard McKay, manager of HBC.

Around the edges of the banquet hall were dolls made by Greater Victoria teen-agers, sponsored by the Bay, which will be sent children in Korea for Christmas.

"Our little girls in the Sam Yook home in Korea are disabled children. I can see them in front of me now when they receive the dolls. They will have a hard time settling down. Then they will sing

Double Trouble For Men

Two men were charged in two courts Thursday with breaking and entering.

Robert Borgal, 723 Yates, and Donald Nelson, no fixed address, first appeared in Colwood RCMP court and were charged with breaking, entering and attempted theft from a Malahat service station.

They then went to Saanich police court in the afternoon, where they were charged with breaking, entering and stealing $650 worth of goods from another service station at Elk Lake.

Altogether, eight men were involved in the two cases.

In the Colwood case, also charged were Robert Charles Jackson, no fixed address, and Albert Jenik, of Vancouver. All four were remanded to Wednesday for trial by judge and jury.

In the Saanich case, also charged were George Guraly, 228 Beechwood, and Bella Plocza, no fixed address. They pleaded guilty and were remanded to Nov. 29 for sentence.

Nelson and Gorgal pleaded not guilty and will face trial Dec. 1.

On Tuesday, Jenik had also pleaded guilty in this case and was remanded to Nov. 29.

"Canada. It will be a little girl's dream," said the USC director. She is known throughout the world as "the mother of 70 projects in nine different countries, ably administered by Dr. Hirschmanova."

LITTLE RED SCHOOLS?

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A Christmas vacation was proclaimed Thursday in all schools throughout Haiti, a month early.

A government communique broadcast over the radio, said the vacation was ordered to prevent schools from being infested with communism.

Log Boom Report to Williston

A report on the View Royal log boom battle has gone to the office of Lands Minister Ray Williston.

View Royal residents made 46 submissions protesting plans for a booming ground in Esquimalt Harbor at a public hearing Oct. 13.

Greater Victoria Mill Operators' Association has applied for a lease on 21.72 acres of provincial foreshore property to add to existing log booms.

The View Royal residents more than 100 turned up for the hearing—said the logs would spoil their view, their boating, swimming and water skiing and decrease the value of their property.

Lands superintendent Tom

Hyslop, who presided at the hearing, has submitted a full report with recommendations.

Mr. Williston will see it on his return from Ottawa, where he is attending talks on the Columbia River hydro project.

It will probably be Monday or Tuesday before any announcement is made.

Mayor Bows on Sign Bylaw

City council Thursday gave three readings to the controversial new sign bylaw after a final bid to make it tougher was voted down.

Mayor Percy Scourrah and Ald. M. H. Mooney led an unsuccessful drive to reduce the deadline from eight years to five years for removal of all non-conforming signs.

Failure of the attempt took the steam out of the final efforts to crack down on roof signs, billboards and projecting signs.

Mayor Scourrah, pointing out that the bylaw had gone through four draft revisions during the frequent earlier debates, said it was time to bow to the inevitable.

COMPROMISE

"We could sit here for a week and debate this and we wouldn't get any place. It's not what some of us want but life is filled with compromise.

"This question has proved so controversial that we may as well accept the special committee's recommendations."

Four delegations, from the sign companies, Standard Oil Company of B.C., Victoria Automobile Dealers' Association and Victoria branch of the Auto Court Association of B.C., supported the fifth draft. But the city's advisory planning commission opposed changes made to the final draft at the request of the sign companies.

TO THE WOLVES

A bitter attack against the bylaw was launched after the meeting by aldermanic candidate Charles Nelles, who watched the proceedings from the spectators' benches.

"The sign bylaw throws our city to the wolves," he said. "Almost every demand of the sign painters and their Vancouver lawyers has been accepted."

"Billboards can run wild on any vacant lot. That we are trying to build a dignified, distinctive city is overlooked. If it is passed, can we wonder any longer why Victoria is something less than it might be?"

Magistrate Praises Truckers' Defence

Two men in Saanich police court Thursday were commended by Magistrate William Ostler for conducting their defence with skill—but they were still fined a total of $60.

William P. Mattison and Peter Peterson, of 2717 Belmont, were charged with owning a truck used to deliver gravel within the municipality of Saanich, without a municipal licence.

Police said on August 17 this year a truck owned by the defendants went down the Trans-Canada Highway, turned on to Burnside Road and dumped a load of gravel on the CNR tracks nearby.

Saanich licensing inspector Roy Wootton testified that a licence to conform with the bylaw had been issued for the truck to cover the period January 15 to July 15 of this year but it had not been renewed.

CROWN LAND

Mattison said the truck was licensed by the British Columbia Public Utilities Commission to use the Trans-Canada Highway and the land on which the gravel was dumped was crown property.

Magistrate Ostler termed the objection as "interesting" but did not uphold it.

Mattison was fined the minimum of $25 and ordered to pay the $10 licensing fee. Patterson was given a suspended sentence.

Patterson was further charged with a similar offence on the same day and was also fined $25 and ordered to pay the licensing fee.

Funeral Held For Former Queen's Piper

William Campbell, member of the Victoria Order and personal piper to Queen Victoria, died recently at Maple Ridge in his 88th year.

He was well-known in Victoria city piping circles having judged piping contests at the highland games.

Born in Scotland, Mr. Campbell travelled with Queen Victoria as her piper, and during Queen Elizabeth's visit to Vancouver last year he was invited to attend a reception at the Queen's request.

He is survived by his wife Camilla.

Mr. Campbell had lived in B.C. for 50 years and in the Maple Ridge area for 30 years.

He served in the South African War and in the First World War with the original Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Funeral services, held in Garden Hill Funeral Chapel, Maple Ridge, were conducted by Rev. J. M. Pollock and followed by cremation.

Ramsay to Quit Busy Civic Life

Ald. Hugh Ramsay Thursday told city council he will not stand for re-election next month.

His decision means at least two new faces will be seen in the council next year, Ald. Elmer McEwen also has said he will drop out of civic life.

Ald. Ramsay said he made his decision primarily because of the pressure of his own work. He pointed out most people did not realize how much time an alderman had to devote to public business.

MEETINGS

"I've kept track, and in less than four years I've attended 487 meetings which has taken 1,309 hours and that's not including the time I've had to take in doing research on civic matters."

Mayor Percy Scourrah said it was "with a good deal of regret that we see you leave council."

Iron Workers' Union Spreads to East

Town Under Water As Rains Hit Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Flood waters poured from ankle to waist depth through scores of western Oregon communities today. Heavy rains put one entire town of 1,000 persons under water. U.S. 101 along the coast, U.S. 22 across the Cascade Range and many secondary routes were blocked by rampaging streams and landslides touched off by a two-day downpour that continued today. But it was slackening in some areas.

Most residents sat it out as the water swirled into stores and homes, but an estimated 50 families were evacuated in scattered areas. No casualties were reported.

Small communities bore the brunt. Weather bureau forecasters said only minor flooding is to be expected along the major rivers. Along the tributaries it was another matter.

Several points reported more than four inches of rain in 24 hours, and the already sodden community of Vaiset in the Coast Range measured 6.41 inches, making a total of 32 inches there in the last two weeks. The streams could not handle it.

Mill Creek came bursting into the town of Turner, nine miles south of the state capital of Salem. First it spread throughout the town of 1,000. Before midnight the entire town was under water, waist deep in some streets. There were no evacuations.

Twenty-eight families were evacuated from the community of Shady Dell on the Molalla River, about 25 miles south-east of Portland. A number of families also were evacuated from lowlands east of Portland, where Johnson Creek overflowed.

KRUPP GIVEN YEAR'S GRACE ON SALE ORDER

BONN (AP)—Alfred Krupp will get another year's extension on a Western Big Three order that he sell part of his industrial empire, informed sources said Thursday.

Informants said an Allied German commission set up to deal with the order will give Krupp another year's grace because of allied inability to agree on eventual ownership of Krupp's coal and steel holdings.

They said the disagreement is based on the French refusal to allow Krupp to keep his holdings.

Cabinet Spurs Quebec Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday some senior government employees may attend next week's provincial conference in Quebec, but no cabinet ministers will go.

The conference was called by Premier Lesage to discuss provincial affairs among the 10 premiers. Mr. Diefenbaker was invited during the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference here last month.

The prime minister said it had been decided one or more senior departmental advisers of the government may be instructed to attend as observers.

Pedestrian Death Called Accidental

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Annie Armitage, 84, of 3116 Steele, who was involved in a collision with a car as she crossed Douglas Street several weeks ago, was accidental, a coroner's inquest ruled Wednesday.

Mrs. Armitage died late Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital without recovering from a coma she entered Oct. 26.

She was in collision with a car driven by William H. Neill, 3855 Rowland, and rushed to hospital with both legs broken, internal injuries and suffering from concussion.

Mr. Rowland told police later that he had seen the woman walking west and had applied the brakes and sounded the horn but the pedestrian had kept going.

The jury added recommending that at least one crosswalk be located in the area of the accident in light of the fact that two popular businesses had been located there for the past year or so.

The recommendation will receive quick attention from city council.

City engineer James Garnett said later he will look into the matter and make a report to the council's public works committee.

MAJOR SHOW

Japanese Paintings At Art Gallery

Formal opening of one of the Art Gallery's major exhibitions this year, a collection of paintings from the brush of Japan's famed 19th century master Tomioka Tessai, will be held Tuesday, Nov. 29 for gallery members.

The paintings will be on public display Nov. 30 to Dec. 22.

The exhibition of 53 paintings has created widespread interest where shown in the U.S. and Europe, and has been organized by the National Gallery for circulation to four Canadian centres.

They come from the private collection of Sakamoto Koji, bishop of Kiyoshi Kojin Temple in Japan.

'SOUL DESIRE'
Bishop Koji, aged 86, wrote the Victoria Gallery last week that "my soul desire is to nurture through art the religious concepts in the minds of all people throughout the world, and thus to contribute to world peace and international goodwill."

As a special gesture, the bishop has sent the gallery 80 large samples of his own calligraphy to be distributed as gifts to visitors at the exhibition.

Gallery officials have arranged a box from which visitors will draw lots for the decorative writing made on rice paper.

CARTOONIST

Also on view at the same time will be a show of recent paintings by Sid Barron, Times employee and one of B.C.'s best-known cartoonists who in private life is a serious painter. His works deal primarily with boats and boating life.

Vast Credit Export Plan Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — A major new joint program by the government and chartered banks to provide credit for Canadian exports of capital goods was unveiled in the Commons today by Trade Minister Hees.

Aimed at meeting credit competition in world markets by foreign suppliers, the plan will see establishment of a new financing company by Canada's nine chartered banks, backed by government cash and credit.

Officials said it could ultimately provide as much as $700,000,000 in medium and long-term credit for exporters. Of this, $200,000,000 would be available from federal funds, with the rest being raised by the new company.

MEET COMPETITION

Mr. Hees, in his announcement, described the plan as establishing "new and fully adequate export financing facilities" and said Canadian exporters of capital goods "will thus be enabled to meet credit competition from foreign suppliers."

Capital goods exporters who had hesitated to seek new business for lack of credit "now have the assured support they need," Mr. Hees said. It would mean increased employment. It now was up to the exporters "to utilize the tools."

The Commons opposition voiced qualified approval. Lionel Chevrier (E-Montreal Laurier) said the move is "certainly most desirable at this time" of increased export competition.

CCF Leader Argue said the plan "should fill an important need."

NEW BORROWING POWER

Government sources said no new legislation will be required. In effect, the scheme will put the present powers of the government's Export Credits Insurance Corporation to new uses.

Officials said the main effect of the new scheme will be to enable the banks through the new company to borrow money in a way they haven't been able to before in order to finance exports on terms of up to five years. They would do this on the strength of repayment guarantees on export deals now provided by the export credits insurance corporation.

The government's insurance corporation would continue, as

TIMES APPEAL LAUNCHED FOR 'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

The Times today launched its eighth annual year-end appeal on behalf of the Unitarian Services Committee which takes food and essentials from Canada to under-nourished children in other lands.

This year's appeal is for "Children of India."

Fuller details of the campaign appear on Page 21 with a story reporting an address Thursday night by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, the USC director.

In the last seven years the Times has raised close to $75,000 for the good work done by the USC.

The 1960 appeal is to cover costs of distributing the staples of life such as powdered milk, rice and soya beans to impoverished children in India. It is hoped to exceed the $11,000 mark of last year.

The fund has already reached $423.81.

It was started with $100 contributed by the Times.

Pearson Raps Tory Inaction

VANCOUVER (CP) — National Liberal Leader Lester Pearson issued a caustic blast at the Diefenbaker government today for inaction on what he termed "increasing unemployment" across Canada.

Mr. Pearson's message was given to 150 delegates from across the province, meeting in a one-day convention of the B.C. Liberal Association.

The national leader expressed regret that the affairs of Parliament kept him in Ottawa but gave his message by means of a recording.

The delegates, meeting in a West Vancouver hall, festooned with such placards as "Peace, Prosperity, Pearson" and "Have Grit, Will Govern," also heard provincial leader Ray Perrault issue an appeal to all working people to support the Liberal party as individuals.

Mr. Pearson said the worst aspect of Canada's economic situation is "the increasing unemployment."

"It is intolerable that at the end of October, 5.7 per cent of our work force should be unemployed—the figure is higher in B.C.—as against 4 per cent the same time last year," Mr. Pearson said.

"An increase of 117,000 cannot be dismissed by the government—leaving at those who call attention to it as prophets of doom and gloom. The real doomsday is those Tories who refuse to recognize the fact and now, too late, are trying to deal with them in measures which will not be good enough to meet the situation."

RED CHINA, CANADA NOT TALKING YET

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today no steps have been taken by the government to open discussions with Communist China for an exchange of ambassadors.

He made the statement in reply to a question by Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) in the Commons. The question was based on the prime minister's speech to the Canadian Club at Ottawa Thursday, in which Mr. Diefenbaker said the western world cannot indefinitely ignore the size and importance of China in world affairs.

South Africa Seeks World Popularity

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africa is undertaking a massive campaign to win friends abroad and repair its international reputation, damaged by bloody racial disorders and political unrest this year.

A hundred of the country's leading citizens have been enlisted in the campaign to "gain better, international understanding of South Africa." The drive is expected to cost several million pounds.

It is to be directed by an organization known as the South African Foundation, set up last December and including English and Afrikaans speaking leaders. Described as completely independent of South Africa's white supremacy Nationalist government, the foundation has established contacts with influential friends of South Africa in Europe, the United States and Canada.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

By AB KENT

On the topic of traffic lights, M.F.R. asks, "Are you allowed to turn right on the red light at a multi-phase traffic signal?"

The answer to this is, "Sometimes."

The multi-phase signal allows three or more separate traffic movements at an intersection, as compared with two movements at an ordinary traffic light.

Essentially, the rule about making a right turn applies here unless there is other instruction to a driver. You can turn right on a red light, after you have stopped, provided the way is clear.

At Yates and Douglas there is a sign at each corner prohibiting such a movement.

There is similar other instruction at one corner of a multi-phase layout at Oak Bay junction, for southbound traffic on Fort intending to go west on Pandora.

A turn here must be made only with a signal by a green arrow, and then only from the proper, outside lane.

But across Pandora, for northbound traffic on Fort intending to turn east on Oak Bay, a right turn on the red light is perfectly all right as long as the driver approaches in the proper lane, stops, yields to pedestrian and other traffic and signals the turn.

On the other arms of this intersection, that is eastbound on Pandora and westbound on Oak Bay, right turns are prohibited under any circumstances.

Another reader has asked if he may turn right from Richmond onto Fort when the light controlling his lane is red. This, too, is a multi-phase signal, but operates in a slightly different way from the one at Pandora.

If the way is clear this man may, after his full stop, turn the corner slowly and go along Fort, but he must pass through two marked pedestrian crossings controlled by their own signals.

One crosses Richmond, the other crosses Fort and both operate on "WALK" during the time his lane light is red, though not simultaneously.

He must therefore use extra caution.

If you are troubled by a traffic problem, ask the Times "Traffic Trouble Tips."

Special Session Saturday

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons today that he will sit in on a new round of high-level talks to be held here Saturday in an effort to avert the "catastrophic results" of a nation-wide railway strike.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will attend the meetings along with Labor Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

The first conference is between the government team and representatives of the 15 unions that have called the strike for Dec. 3.

The second conference is with presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and N. R. Crump of the CPR, the prime minister said.

PLANS UNDISCLOSED

The prime minister did not disclose what the government plans to do about the impending strike threat.

He said that when the three-minister cabinet team met with the union negotiators last week in Montreal they pointed out that railway revenues are frozen by a government edict until the MacPherson royal commission on transportation makes its report "on or before" March 31, 1961.

He indicated it was on this basis that the government asked the unions to postpone the strike—a move turned down "officially" Monday by chief union negotiator Frank H. Hall of Montreal.

The prime minister said Saturday's meetings were called in view of the catastrophic results that would follow a national interruption of railway services.

MAY ASK COMPROMISE

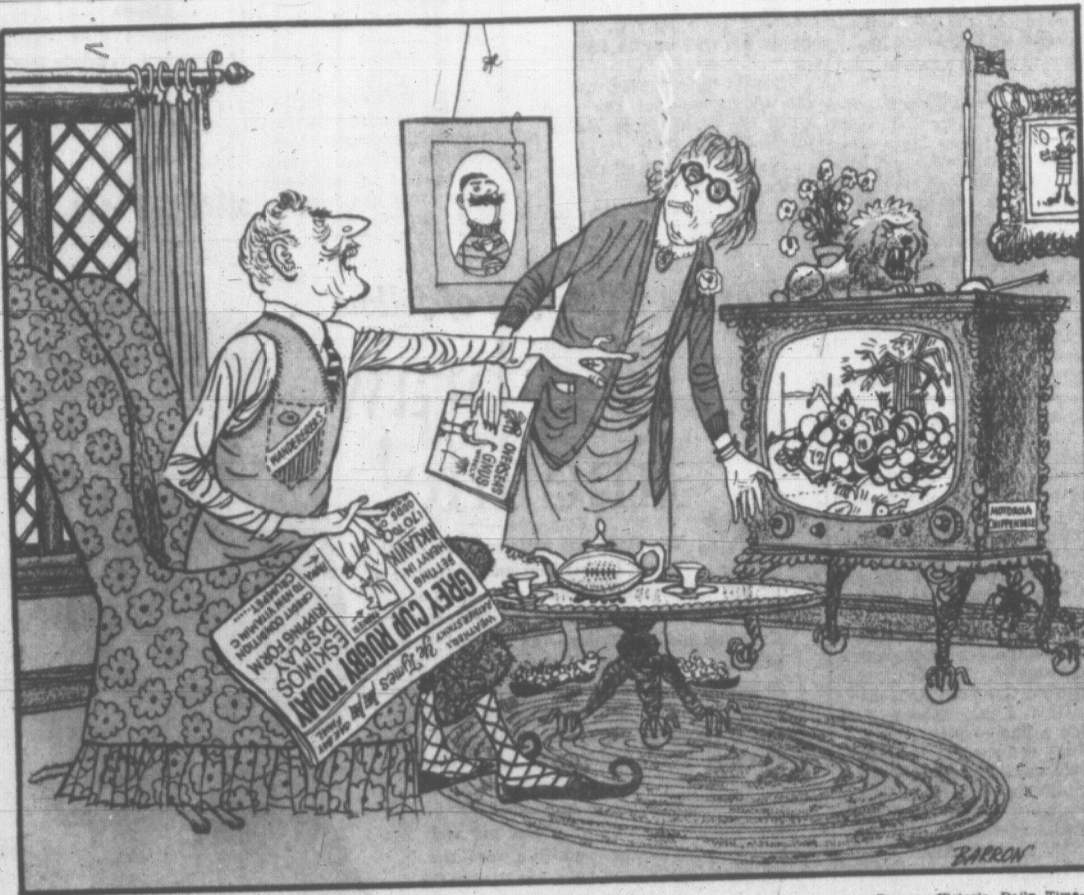

Although the government is keeping its possible plans to avert a strike in closely-guarded secret, there are indications it may propose a compromise settlement with the 111,000 "non-op" workers getting half of the 14-cent hourly wage boost recommended by the federal conciliation board.

The other seven-cent hourly boost would be left to an impartial arbitrator to consider on the basis of wage trends in the durable goods industry which the unions want as the yardstick of pay on the railways.

The conciliation report, written by Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain of Calgary and supported by union nominee David Lewis of Toronto, proposed a 14-cent hourly increase to be paid in three steps. It called for two cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, five cents an hour on Sept. 1, plus four per cent next May 1.

Layoffs Begin

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR and CPR have begun to lay off employees across the country as the result of a nation-wide rail strike by non-operating employees called for Dec. 3, a railway source said today.

... turn the confounded game off, Pamela ... players dashing on and off the pitch ... forward passes ... feet up in the scrum ... the beastly umpires seem to have lost their spectacles ...

PLUCKY PEDEN PICKS OTTAWA OVER ESKIMOS

The expert who gave you Pittsburgh Pirates in the World Series, today goes against the oddsmakers again. Times Sports Editor Doug Peden, in a special report from Vancouver, picks Ottawa Rough Riders to win Saturday's Grey Cup football final from Edmonton Eskimos.

For Peden's reasoning see Page 12.

The final street sale edition of the Times Saturday will be delayed until the completion of the game, and will carry a full report by Peden and Ernie Fedoruk, along with the play by play description.

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Big Nations Face Crisis Of Economics

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The true state of the North Atlantic nations that form the political, economic and military heart of the free world is quite different from its public image.

A single fact—and a daunting one—reveals the gap between these nations' expectations and their performance: Apart from the booming Six of the European Common Market none of the major Western nations is growing significantly in wealth today.

In Britain, the United States and Canada, three essential pillars of the free world economy, production and consumption are no longer rising and seem likely to fall. But other grave factors are at work to assure, not long hence, an organic distortion in the whole North Atlantic community and defence alliance.

As one of Britain's leading economists remarked to this reporter in London, "at its present rate the West is going broke." In his view, though over-simplified, is echoed by experts in Washington and privately shared by thoughtful men in Ottawa.

The real question facing the North Atlantic nations is not whether they are slipping in their economic struggle with Communism but whether and how they can arrest their downward slide.

Certainly the slide cannot be arrested and reversed by present methods. Projected a little ahead, the economic graphs of the West point straight toward calamity. And if calamity is not averted by new methods Canada will doubtless be its chief casualty.

How did this strange and little understood crisis in Western man's affairs come about? What has gone wrong with his neat plans and the confident forecasts of his politicians? Why is his present dilemma built to order for Mr. Khrushchev?

It will require a series of reports from Britain, Europe, Washington and Ottawa to explore these complex questions.

MONTE ROBERTS

Thoughts while thinking . . .

I have been thinking for a long time about the small car parking space at the meter on Pandora beside the city hall . . . the one with the sign reading "Small Car Only" . . . at first I was thinking, how small is a small car? . . . but now I am thinking, why shouldn't a small car parking meter have a smaller parking fee than a large car meter? . . . the fact I have a small car doesn't influence my thinking . . . much . . .

I have been thinking (apropos above) shouldn't we have special parking spaces for small minds, too? . . .

I have been thinking about the small schmozzle at the Memorial Arena . . . and I have been thinking, the city council has made a large error about this small schmozzle . . . because all the good citizens who are not in the know are convinced it is a very large schmozzle . . . so I have been thinking, why not let all of the good citizens know for sure how large or small this schmozzle is? . . .

I have been thinking, will the next Korea-type small war start in the Congo or Cuba? . . . and if so, will we have a choice as to a small war or a big war? . . .

I have been thinking, the unemployment problem is only a very small problem, except for those who are unemployed . . .

I have been thinking about whether or not the moon is made of green cheese . . . and I have come to the conclusion, when man first reaches the moon, he will find it made of cheese not green at all . . . because I have been thinking, the moon has been there long enough to be thoroughly aged . . .

I have been thinking about the home-bound five o'clock motorists who weave in and out of traffic . . . and what they do with the five seconds they save with their own and other lives at stake . . .

I have been thinking of small things and big things, but mostly I have been thinking of giving-up-thinking . . . because I must think of my blood pressure.

Evidently the combination lock had been picked, she said. "People can't afford to buy gym shorts and running shoes every month," she said. "We pay $1 each year to provide security for students' belongings and I think this sort of thing shouldn't be allowed to happen."

NO INQUIRY ON FINANCES

He was commenting on a request for such an inquiry by the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Peterson presided at a cabinet meeting Thursday which heard chamber officers present their annual brief.

Start on Villa Ordered As Job-Maker

Because of the need for winter employment, construction of the new Kiwanis Villa to house 52 single persons is starting now instead of next spring.

A few men are already working on the Cedar Hill Road site adjacent to Kiwanis Village, which houses 87 senior citizens, mostly married couples.

"By the New Year we expect to have 50 or 60 men on the job," a Kiwanis official said today. "This will help alleviate unemployment in the construction industry this winter."

MAYOR TO DIG

First sod on the Kiwanis Villa site will be turned by Mayor Percy Scurrell next Tuesday at 1.45 p.m.

The following Thursday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. the Kiwanis will conduct a one-hour "blitz" to raise funds for the $233,000 villa project.

The villa will provide 52 bedrooms, two sun-lounges, boiler room and electrical plant, plus temporary kitchen and storage rooms.

Construction is being done by the M. P. Paine Co. of Victoria.

KITTENS THRIVE ON CANINE MOTHERHOOD

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Foster mother to four families of kittens is Scamp, a golden-haired spaniel-cum-Yorkshire terrier who lives in a rambling house at 5055 Santa Clara Avenue, Royal Oak.

She feeds them, cuddles them, nuzzles them and fusses around them day and night.

"In fact she takes over the full duties of a mother cat," says Scamp's owner, Mrs. H. J. Reed.

Perhaps because she has had no puppies of her own, three-year-old Scamp takes possession whenever Blackie, her feline playmate, has a fresh litter. And Blackie is well content to let her do all the work.

"Blackie is not a good mother," Mrs. Reed explained. "She obviously doesn't want the kittens and leaves them to die. But Scamp nuzzles them out and adopts them."

The kittens seem to thrive on canine motherhood. They look in the pink of condition as they cuddle up to their foster-mother, or romp with her about the house and garden.

HER FOURTH

Scamp's present charges—her fourth cat family in two years—are two tiny black kittens and a ginger kitten named Ginger.

"No, they don't bark," laughed Mrs. Reed, "but they do some of the things dogs do. They eat up Scamp's dog biscuits, play with her bones and dash around the house like puppies."

"They also perform their daily ablutions after the fashion of dogs. It is all very extraordinary."

When Scamp goes for a walk she is followed not only by the three kittens but by two full-grown cats she has raised.

One odd thing—Scamp usually adopts kittens born in July or August. Mrs. Reed thinks this may be because she only has mother's milk during these months.

"Adoption of kittens by dogs is unusual but it does happen from time to time," says Dr. R. E. Cranston, Victoria veterinary surgeon. "The dog has obviously been brought up with cats and, having no puppies of her own, her mother instinct leads her to kittens."

'INSTANT ICE' BANGS UP CARS

"Instant icing" conditions which have plagued the Thetis Lake overpass on the Trans-Canada Highway caused five accidents in a 90-minute period this morning. None of them was serious. All happened between 7:30 and 9 a.m. by cars slipping out of control on a thin skin of ice forming very rapidly.

A Provincial Works Department official on the scene this morning said the overpass, part of the cloverleaf connecting with the Old Island Highway, was ice-free at 7 a.m.

By 7:30 the ice had formed.

The official said the ice results from cold wind funneling under the overpass, cooling it from the inside up to the surface, where the morning dew turns to ice almost instantly.

The only remedy is spreading salt, which was done this morning.

The overpass is checked daily, and "slippery when wet" signs are posted.

SHARE WAGES?

'Aldermen By Proxy' Protested

They're off and running.

Victoria's dull preliminaries to the Dec. 8 election of four aldermen lived up today as two candidates traded punches over a personal issue.

Victor Williams, who lost a bid for council last year, attacked Ald. Arthur Dowell's nomination as a move to "have aldermen by proxy."

He noted that Ald. Dowell had declared he would take an extended trip to Europe next year and argued that this should have prevented him from standing for re-election.

"The public knows what my intentions are. I haven't hidden anything and everyone knows the condition under which I'm offering to serve again," replied Ald. Dowell.

"It's for the public to decide whether they want me, not Mr. Williams."

'FREEZE OUT'

Mr. Williams said statements that sitting aldermen had agreed to carry an extra load while Ald. Dowell is away, if he is elected, "indicate that they're trying to freeze out any opposition getting on council."

"How are they going to share his vote when a controversial question, like the arena commission or off-street parking, comes up during his absence?" he asked.

"Are they going to share his aldermanic wages too?"

FIVE MONTHS

Mr. Williams said it is "wrong for a candidate to stand when he is going to be away for five or six months which constitutes 25 per cent of the term of office he's running for. I can't agree with aldermen by proxy."

Arena Fight Buried By Confidence Vote

A vote of "complete confidence" in Memorial Arena commission was passed Thursday by city council.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, who made the motion seconded by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, explained that several aldermen had met privately with the commission regarding the resignation controversy "to get it settled once and for all."

The council's decision effectively buried the arena controversy. Earlier a showdown had been expected at the meeting on demands for a public inquiry into the situation but it never materialized because of unanimous support for the confidence motion.

Ald. Dowell said the commission had been and will be "very fair" to the six employees who resigned last month. He said the commission also felt it had been subjected to "unjustified criticism."

NO SWEEPER

Ald. Elmer McEwen smilingly preceded his remarks with: "I didn't bring my carpet sweeper. Maybe I should have."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay said he supported the motion with qualifications that the commission carry out its agreement to be fair to the employees, ensure that arena manager Joe Dukowski is replaced as soon as possible and make monthly reports to council as it was supposed to under the bylaw.

DISRUPTION

Ald. Ramsay said there was a possibility that if the issue had been pressed further the taxpayers would suffer by total disruption of arena affairs resulting in financial losses.

He said this could mean that ratepayers would have to increase their present annual subsidy of some $40,000 to pay off the arena's debt.

Although not totally satisfied with the outcome, Ald. Ramsay said he felt it was the "best course to follow under the circumstances. He

Christmas Day falls on a Sunday, so Monday counts as a holiday in its place, and Tuesday counts for Boxing Day.

Downtown stores will be closed Tuesday, Dec. 27. But all the banks must open because they are governed by the federal Bank Act, which prevents them closing more than three consecutive days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

MUST OPEN

A circular to the banks says they must open despite public or civic holidays.

The bankers will get off on Monday, Jan. 2, however, as credit for New Year's Day, also a Sunday.

Department stores will start their Christmas night shopping Dec. 19, remaining open to 9 every night until Dec. 23. Christmas Eve store hours will be 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The provincial cabinet on Thursday approved the holiday dates under the Interpretation Act; it previously approved them under the Civil Service Act.

MAY LOSE OUT

Federal employees will get Monday, Dec. 26, off, but they may lose out on the 27th.

State Secretary Noel Dorion said in Ottawa that there is no federal legislation which allows the "extra" holiday on Dec. 27.

FAST FERRY TO BE BUSY FOR GREY CUP

B.C. government ferries will be taking many busloads of enthusiasts to the Grey Cup final in Vancouver Saturday, starting at 7 a.m. from Swartz Bay.

"We expect to be able to handle all the cars and bus passengers who will be travelling," a spokesman said. "Many will be leaving early in time for the Grey Cup parade."

pointed to arena commissioner Courtney Haddock's decision to withhold a threatened resignation as evidence that the problems would be resolved.

RESIGN?

There were hints during council's debate that the arena commission might resign en masse if the compromise was not adopted.

"Rather than be faced with the resignations of the commission, the manager and the experienced staff all at once, leading to chaos, I think we will have to put faith in the commission to carry out the things they outlined to us," said Ald. Ramsay.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said council had not received the monthly reports required from the commission for the past 16 years but this would be rectified in future.

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Big Nations Face Crisis Of Economics

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The true state of the North Atlantic nations that form the political, economic and military heart of the free world is quite different from its public image.

A single fact—and a daunting one—reveals the gap between these nations' expectations and their performance: Apart from the booming Six of the European Common Market none of the major Western nations is growing significantly in wealth today.

In Britain, the United States and Canada, three essential pillars of the free world economy, production and consumption are no longer rising and seem likely to fall. But other grave factors are at work to assure, not long hence, an organic distortion in the whole North Atlantic community and defence alliance.

As one of Britain's leading economists remarked to this reporter in London, "at its present rate the West is going broke." This view, though over-simplified, is echoed by experts in Washington and privately shared by thoughtful men in Ottawa.

The real question facing the North Atlantic nations is not whether they are slipping in their economic struggle with Communism but whether and how they can arrest their downward slide.

Certainly the slide cannot be arrested and reversed by present methods. Projected a little ahead, the economic graphs of the West point straight toward calamity. And if calamity is not averted by new methods Canada will doubtless be its chief casualty.

How did this strange and little understood crisis in Western man's affairs come about? What has gone wrong with his neat plans, and the confident forecasts of his politicians? Why is his present dilemma built to order for Mr. Khrushchev?

TIMES APPEAL BEGINS FOR 'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

The Times today launched its eighth annual year-end appeal on behalf of the Unitarian Services Committee which takes food and essentials from Canada to undernourished children in other lands.

This year's appeal is for "Children of India." Fuller details of the campaign appear on Page 21 with a story reporting an address Thursday night by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, the USC director.

In the last seven years the Times has raised close to $75,000 for the good work done by the USC.

The 1960 appeal is to cover costs of distributing the staples of life such as powdered milk, rice and soy beans to impoverished children in India. It is hoped to exceed the $11,000 mark of last year.

The fund has already reached $423.81.

It was started with $100 contributed by the Times.

Spirits Up With Tarps Dry, Cloudy Grid Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hopes, spirits and tarpaulins came up today in the wake of a happy announcement of a considerable change in Vancouver's weather pattern overnight.

The weather man said the Grey Cup football championship between Edmonton Eskimos and Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday should be partly cloudy, probably dry and no fog with temperature of 40 to 45 degrees.

The forecast was made with the first blue sky showing over Vancouver in a week.

Empire Stadium, with approval from the weather office, lifted the tarpaulins that have been covering the field to let it dry out a bit.

Stadium officials said the field will still be soft for the game, but in better condition than if it had been impossible to lift the tarps until shortly before the 1.30 p.m. PST game time.

PM to Attend Railway Strike Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons today that he will sit in on a new round of high-level talks to be held here Saturday in an effort to avert the "catastrophic results" of a nation-wide railway strike.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will attend the meetings along with Labor Minister Starn, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton.

The first conference is between the government, team and representatives of the 15 unions that have called the strike for Dec. 3.

The second conference is with presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and N.R. Crump of the CPR, the prime minister said.

PLANS UNDISCLOSED

The prime minister did not disclose what the government plans to do about the impending strike threat.

He said that when the three-minister cabinet team met with the union negotiators last week in Montreal, they pointed out that railway revenues are frozen by a government edict until the MacPherson royal commission on transportation makes its report "on or before" March 31, 1961.

$700,000,000 To be Available

OTTAWA (CP)—A major new joint program by the government and chartered banks to provide credit for Canadian exports of capital goods was unveiled in the Commons today by Trade Minister Hees.

Aimed at meeting credit competition in world markets by foreign suppliers, the plan will see establishment of a new financing company by Canada's nine chartered banks, backed by government cash and credit.

Officials said it could ultimately provide as much as $700,000,000 in medium and long-term credit for exporters. Of this, $200,000,000 would be available from federal funds with the rest being raised by the new company.

MEET COMPETITION

Mr. Hees, in his announcement, described the plan as establishing "new and fully adequate export financing facilities" and said Canadian exporters of capital goods "will thus be enabled to meet credit competition from foreign suppliers."

Capital goods exporters who had hesitated to seek new business for lack of credit "now have the assured support they need," Mr. Hees said. It would mean increased employment. It now was up to the exporters "to utilize the tools."

ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Pearson Raps Tory Inaction

VANCOUVER (CP)—National Liberal Leader Lester Pearson issued a caustic blast at the Diefenbaker government today for inaction on what he termed "increasing unemployment" across Canada.

Mr. Pearson's message was given to 150 delegates from across the province, meeting in a one-day convention of the B.C. Liberal Association.

The national leader expressed regret that the affairs of Parliament kept him in Ottawa but gave his message by means of a recording.

The delegates, meeting in a West Vancouver hall, festooned with such placards as "Peace, Prosperity, Pearson" and "Have Grit, Will Govern," also heard provincial leader Ray Perrault issue an appeal to all working people to support the Liberal party as individuals.

Mr. Pearson said the worst aspect of Canada's economic situation is "the increasing unemployment."

"It is intolerable that at the end of October, 5.7 per cent of our work force should be unemployed—the figure is higher in B.C.—as against 4 per cent the same time last year," Mr. Pearson said.

"An increase of 117,000 cannot be dismissed by the government jeering at those who call attention to it as prophets of doom and gloom. The real doomsters are those Tories who as late as six months ago refused to recognize the fact and now, too late, are trying to deal with them in measures which will not be good enough to meet the situation."

He declared that the present governments in Victoria and Ottawa are not good enough and it was "time for an overhaul, time for a shakeup, time for an end to financial hocus pocus."

At the same time he hit out hard at Premier Bennett's Social Credit government and at the proposed CCF-Labor alliance in a new party.

"He told more than 100 delegates at the B.C. Liberal Association convention that the plight of the working man must be the concern of the Liberal party."

"The workers," he said, "are in danger of being led astray by CCFers in the trade union movement who are lusting after power ... using union dues as a springboard to political success."

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

A 'Sometime' Situation

By AB KENT

On the topic of traffic lights, M.F.R. asks, "Are you allowed to turn right on the red light at a multi-phase traffic signal?"

The answer to this is, "Sometimes." The multi-phase signal allows three or more separate traffic movements at an intersection, as compared with two movements at an ordinary traffic light.

Essentially, the rule about making a right-turn applies here unless there is other instruction to a driver. . . . You can turn right on a red light, after you have stopped, provided the way is clear.

At Yates and Douglas there is a sign at each corner prohibiting such a movement.

There is similar other instruction at one corner of a multi-phase layout at Oak Bay junction, for southbound traffic on Fort intending to go west on Pandora.

A turn here must be made only with a signal by a green arrow, and then only from the proper, outside lane.

But across Pandora, for northbound traffic on Fort intending to turn east on Oak Bay, a right turn on the red light is perfectly all right as long as the driver approaches in the proper lane, stops, yields to pedestrian and other traffic and signals the turn.

On the other arms of this intersection, that is eastbound on Pandora and westbound on Oak Bay, right turns are prohibited under any circumstances.

Another reader has asked if he may turn right from Richmond onto Fort when the light controlling his lane is red. This, too, is a multi-phase signal, but operates in a slightly different way from the one at Pandora.

If the way is clear this man may, after his full stop, turn the corner slowly and go along Fort, but he must pass through two marked pedestrian crossings controlled by their own signals.

One crosses Richmond, the other crosses Fort and both operate on "WALK" during the time his lane light is red, though not simultaneously.

He must therefore use extra caution.

If you are troubled by a traffic problem, ask the Times "Traffic Trouble Tips."

PARIS (AP)—Legislators from the 15 North Atlantic Treaty countries were told today western Europe must bridge the gap between its two rival trading groups or face serious political as well as economic consequences.

A report to the annual NATO parliamentary conference described relations between the six-nation Common Market and British led "Outer Seven" as a "most urgent" problem facing the western alliance.

All the Common Market nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—are also members of NATO. But three of the seven in the free trade zone—Austria, Sweden and Switzerland—are not.

The report suggested the projected new Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development as the best channel for the two trading systems to reach an understanding. All 13 countries are to join the OECD when it comes into effect next year.

U.S. Expands Contacts

Brandt Backed

HANNOVER (AP)—The Social Democrats today unanimously acclaimed West Berlin mayor Willy Brandt as their candidate for German chancellor, to run on the most pro-western platform the party has ever framed.

RED CHINA, CANADA NOT TALKING YET

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today no steps have been taken by the government to open discussions with Communist China for an exchange of ambassadors.

He made the statement in reply to a question by Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) in the Commons. The question was based on the prime minister's speech to the Canadian Club at Ottawa Thursday, in which Mr. Diefenbaker said the western world cannot indefinitely ignore the size and importance of China in world affairs.

No Bombs—Dief

Briton Blocks NATO Nuclear Arms Pool

PARIS (Reuters)—The British chairman of NATO's military committee today opposed a proposal by supreme commander Gen. Lauris Norstad to build up a NATO pool of nuclear weapons.

Sir Otto Prior-Palmer told a conference of NATO legislators it would be "very dangerous" to create such a nuclear force.

Prior-Palmer argued that the American strategic nuclear force was sufficient to protect the entire NATO area. He said it would be "undesirable" to have both an American and a separate NATO striking force.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today decided against relaxing the present import quota on lead and zinc.
